Benson Cancels Tour Overseas; To Tackle U. S. Farm Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson came under fresh fire today as he abandoned plans for a European tour and decided to go to work on recommendations to Congress next year.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), picturing Benson as unpopular with farmers throughout the country, said he thinks the Eisenhower administration will dismiss Benson as agriculture secretary in an effort "to save face" with the farmers.

"I haven't found one farmer in South Carolina who is for Benson," the senator added. A member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, he has long criticized Benson and the administration's flexible price support program for farm goods.

Some members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet tried to oust Benson after the President was stricken with a heart attack, Farm Journal magazine said today.

The monthly farm magazine, in its November issue, reported that Atty. Gen. Brownell, Postmaster General Summerfield and Harold E. Stasesn, the President's special assistant on disarmament were behind the alleged ouster move. The magazine said the three wanted to abandon the Benson farm policies and out-promise the Democrats.

TREASURY Secretary Humphrey, Defense Secretary Wilson, Secretary of State Dulles and the rest of the Cabinet backed Benson.

The article said Vice President Nixon stayed on the fence.

Johnston said that even if it cost $5 billion a year, it would be better to return to the Democratic-sponsored high price support system than let farmers "go under" as he said is happening to them now.

Benson announced after a White House conference yesterday that he will remain in Washington next month "to direct the continuing preparation of recommendations to Congress designed to strengthen, improve and refine the present agricultural program."

Nixon was understood to have been at the White House at the same time as Benson, leading to speculation that Nixon had a hand in Benson's change of plans.

Benson had said less than two weeks ago he still expected to go

Pilot Crashes Bank After Being Fired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A private pilot was instantly killed when his light plane crashed through the window of a branch bank at International Airport, showering glass on the official who had fired him from a teller-trainee job only the day before.

Witnesses said Benjamin Fauth, glided his Aeronca down wind with the engine dead yesterday and suddenly veered into the Bank of America branch. Diners in the restaurant on the second story of the building were jarred but no one was injured.

"I heard a boom and hit the floor. When I got up I saw the plane in the room," said Robert J. Workman, 37, the bank's chief clerk. He discharged Fauth because "his work was not serious enough." Workman suffered a cut cheek.

Fauth had rented the plane with a full tank of gas only an hour before at a nearby airport.

Police Investigator A. L. Wagnon said Fauth apparently "was trying to get even with the bank for firing him and get rid of himself at the same time."

In Toppenish, Wash., Fauth's father E. Fauth said he could not understand the crash.

Ike, Aides Study 'State Of Union'

2 Writers Getting Briefings On Next Message To Congress

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower called two aides to his hospital room today for a start on the January State of the Union message outlining his legislative program to Congress.

The recuperating President quite likely won't be back at his White House desk on a real working basis until about the time the annual message goes to the lawmakers, but associates say he is eager to get the ball rolling on a preliminary draft.

For his first conference looking toward that draft, he called in retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who is in charge of White House liaison with members of Congress, and Kevin McKann of Defiance, Ohio, his chief speech writer.

They will get his ideas on the legislative program at a brief meeting, then return to Washington to begin actual writing of the message.

Aides said it still is too early to tell whether Eisenhower will be able to deliver the lengthy message in person.

* * *

THE PRESIDENT'S recovery has progressed to a point where he now is doing more and more unassisted walking from his bed to an easy chair and back again in his room at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

It wasn't until last night that anyone really close to the President ventured to discuss in public the possibility that he may not be a candidate next year.

Addressing a Republican rally in his home New Jersey county of Somerset, Benrard M. Shanley, Eisenhower's appointment secretary and former special counsel, said the President "knows he will get well."

Shanley then went on to say that "no matter what the President's decision in 1956 is, whether he will carry the Republican banner or not, certainly all our people will accept that decision."

Shanley conferred briefly with Eisenhower at the hospital last Saturday.

Eisenhower will resume a series of Cabinet-level conferences Saturday when he meets at the hospital with Secretary of Agriculture Benson for a discussion of farm legislation and probably the politically hot issue of what to do about falling farm prices.

On Monday the President will confer with Postmaster General Summerfield,

AIDES SHOWED them to him so he could see the news photographs made of him the day before—the first closeups since his illness.

"He thought they turned out all right,' said Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

During the afternoon the President took six roundtrip walks of half dozen or so steps each way between bed and an easy chair.

That was by far the most walking he had done since the doctors permitted him to stand on his feet for the first time last Saturday.

3 Youngsters To Get Bikes From Virginians

HUMBLE, Tex. (AP)—Two little boys and their sister are getting shiny new bicycles and their baby sister a tricycle because one of them has faith in policemen.

They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown—Jerry Wayne, 9; Charles, 12; Janet, 13; and Janie, 3.

Jerry Wayne read that the Roanoke, Va., police warehouse was stacked with unclaimed bikes. He wrote Detective Capt. Kermit E. Allman couldn't he please have one so big brother Charles could carry newspapers and add to the family income. He also told Allman about his sisters.

Illness prevents the father, a disabled veteran, from driving a truck more than part time. Mrs. Brown can't work. They live in a rural community near here.

Mrs. Brown has been entering contests for years trying to win money for a bicycle. Jerry Wayne and Charles picked up bottles along the highway to get money for the postage.

ALLMAN WROTE Jerry Wayne that he was shipping not one unclaimed bicycle but three new ones and a tricycle for baby Janie this week. They are gifts of the Roanoke Fraternal Order of Police.

Allman said he still remembers how badly he wanted a bicycle that his parents were too poor to buy when he was a boy. He finally paid for one at 14 out of a $4-a-week newspaper route.

Jerry Wayne said he never had any doubts about hearing from Allman "because he's a policeman."

That's what he wrote Allman he wants to be when he grows up.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The 1955 Nobel prize for literature was won today by an Icelandic novelist, Hallor Kiljan Laxness.

A leftist, he is active in the Communist - sponsored International Peace Movement, which previously awarded him a literary prize. He has called the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "A society of war lunatics."

He will receive $36,720 at the presentation of Nobel awards Dec. 10.

Jersey Solon Urged To Bid For Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends are urging Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) to bid for New Jersey's 38 GOP presidential nominating votes as part of a burgeoning "favorite son" movement in both major political parties.

The Case instance parallels that of some other staunch supporters of President Eisenhower who probably wouldn't have given a thought to any "favorite son" maneuvers if a heart attack hadn't cast doubt on whether the President will run.

There is a growing belief among Republican strategists that if the President declines to run in 1956 he may give his blessing to a half dozen or more younger Republicans he might consider fit for top place on the ticket.

The general assumption is that any designation of this sort would include close associates like Vice President Nixon, Presidential Assistant Harold E. Stassen, U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

But leaders agree no such listing could ignore governors and members of Congress.

Among these, Case has carved himself a niche in the Senate, along with some GOP coleagues from less politically powerful states such as Senators Allott of Colorado, Carlson of Kansas and Payne of Maine. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) has been spoken of as a presidential favorite in the House.

Navy Turns Down Male Nurse Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said today it doesn't want any male nurses. In the foreseeable future, a spokesman declared, it will continue to give commissions only to females in the corps.

The Navy thus disagrees with the Army, which already has started commissioning male nurses.

A Navy spokesman pointed out that the new law does not require it to put men into the Nurse Corps. Anyway, he added, the Navy has no need to hire male nurses to go into battlefields as does the Army.

Big Four Ministers Open Conference

Unification Of Germany Labeled As Major Item On Geneva Agenda

GENEVA (AP) — Russia and the Western powers opened another historic conference here today to see whether they can agree upon a formula for unifying Germany and securing permanent peace in Europe.

Foreign ministers of the Big Four nations settled down to work in the Palace of Nations.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan of Britain and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay had agreed beforehand to press Russia's V. M. Molotov to accept German unity on Western terms.

They were prepared to confront the Soviet diplomatic chief with a two - part program, offering to guarantee Russia against German aggression in future if Russia will agree to merge East and West Germany through nationwide free elections. The Western ministers are convinced a free German vote would be overwhelmingly anti-Communist.

Barring a reversal of established Soviet policy, Molotov was expected to insist that before Germany can be unified new conditions must be created in Europe by abolishing the North Atlantic Alliance and building up a new European wide security system.

* * *

BUT LOOMING before the foreign mnisters, although not taken into account in preconference planning, was the fear that Middle East tensions would flare into full-scale shooting war.

New frontier clashes between Israel and Egypt have heightened these fears, as did recent shipments of Communist arms to Egypt from Czechoslovakia.

Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett flew in to Geneva today and said his country would fight a preventive war if necessary but "I hope to God she will not be driven to this."

Sharett said he came to Geneva to see Molotov and the Western foreign ministers about Communist sale of arms to Egypt. Sharett's address in Geneva will be entitled "Chemin Krieg," which translated into English means war path.

Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay were reported to have decided against rushing arms to Israel or formally guaranteeing its security at this time. They evidently hoped to redress the situation by other means.

The Western ministers have arranged to confer regularly among themselves in order to maintain the solid front they consider their greatest single source of strength in dealing with the Russians.

The four ministers are meeting in the Council Room of the Palace of Nations, where the Big Four heads of government laid out general objectives at a summit conference three months ago.

It was that gathering of government heads which developed, particularly between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Bulganin, the cordial relations and declarations for peace which have come to be known the world over as the "spirit of Geneva."

Now Dulles, Macmillan, Pinay and Molotov are putting that spirit to the hard test of turning generalities into accomplishments.

Argentina Bled Into Red By Dictator

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A policy of "austerity, work and sacrifice" with no promise of "pie in the sky" was before the Argentine people today as the new government called for a stringent program of economic rebuilding.

Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi said last night Argentina is confronted with the "most disastrous situation in our economic history." He put the blame squarely on ousted President Juan D. Peron, saying the "irresponsible and corrupt" 10-year rule of the fallen dictator had left economic chaos.

Making a detailed report over a nationwide radio hookup, Lonardi said the nation's gold and dollar reserves totaled $1,680,000,000 at the end of World War II. Now, he said, Argentina has an internal debt of $5 billion, a foreign debt of $757 million and reserves of only $450 million.

Argentina piled up vast reserves during World War II by selling wheat and meat to the Allied powers. When Peron came to power at the end of the war, Argentina was at its highest pinnacle of wealth from wartime profits.

"The system of hiding the truth has ended," Lonardi said. "Ten years of irresponsibility and corruption have led us to the most disastrous situation in our economic history."

No 'Present Danger' Seen In Commies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Legal counsel for 11 defendants in a Smith Act trial starting here next week contends the nation no longer faces a 'clear and present danger."

That was the substance of a motion offered in federal court, asking dismissal of indictments against the 11, accused by the prosecution of being minor leaders of the Communist Party.

The basis of the defense contention was that legal doctrine long has recognized that free speech may be curbed only when the nation faces a "clear and present danger." It conceded such a danger existed five years ago when a group of Communist leaders was tried. The Supreme Court ruled to that effect in upholding the convictions.

Slain Woman's Sister Pleads For Murderer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Jimmie Lee Baker was convicted of murdering a minister's wife and sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday after the sister of the dead woman told the court, "Two wrongs never made a right."

Mrs. Clyde Forster asked that Baker be spared from execution in the electric chair.

The slain woman was Mrs. Lucille Quarles, 50, beaten to death in her home Feb. 14.

Witnesses quoted Baker as saying he and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Watson, had planned to kidnap Mrs. Quarles for money but later decided to rob her. Baker led officers to the spot where he had buried the small loot he obtained.

Mrs. Forster of Signal Mountain, Tenn., told the court:

"My sister was shown no mercy but two wrongs never made a right. I've faced many tragedies in my life but this was my greatest.

"As a mother and as a sister who reared this sister of mine who was killed in cold - blooded murder, I ask you to give this man life imprisonment and may God have mercy on his soul."

After the sentencing, B. F. Baker, Houston retired minister and father of Jimmie Lee, grabbed Mrs. Forster's arm and said, with tears in his eyes, "Thank you, thank you."

Baker originally entered a plea of innocent but changed the plea to guilty yesterday.

Famous Daytonian Dies In Alaska

French Premier Asks New, Risky Vote Of Confidence

PARIS (AP) — Premier Edgar Faure, recent victor in two crucial tests in the National Assembly, today demanded a third and even riskier vote of confidence.

The result could throw him and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay out of office at the very start of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Geneva.

Backed into a corner by defeat on two procedural questions, Faure shut off further debate until tomorrow by demanding a vote of confidence. Until the vote, the premier, a master of political maneuvering, has an opportunity to drum up support.

Had a decisive vote been taken this morning, he probably would have been beaten.

The point that the Big Four foreign ministers were starting their meeting in Geneva today seemed to have caused no hesitancy among deputies who want to throw the government out.

* * *

IT WAS THE same way last week when the premier asked for a vote of confidence on Algerian policy. He won that one easily 308-254 after the deputies had a weekend for reflection, though on a preliminary procedural question they had defeated him 305-274.

Faure asked for a vote of confidence this time after the deputies voted 289-286 to take up a Socialist resolution refusing their confidence.

Earlier, the Assembly refused 303-275 to give priority to a mild government formula "taking note" of government declarations on its general policies.

Technically, the vote tomorrow will be on this government resolution.

But actually it pits opponents of Faure's plan for a general election in December, at least under present electoral laws, against those in favor.

Faure has proposed to cut short the life of the present Parliament, which normally would continue until next June, in order to eliminate some politics from decisions pending on North Africa.

During the debate orators showered criticism on the government for a series of French misfortunes. These included: the anti-Europeanization vote in the Saar plebiscite; chief of state Bao Dai; the possibility that Mohammed Ben Youssef, anti-French Sultan of Morocco may soon be back on his throne.

The debate started over a demand for information on what measures the government plans to take to meet the heavy expenses of military operations in North Africa. Finance Minister Pierre Pflimlin, however, painted a rosy picture of French finances and said the deputies need have no fears about tax increases.

Navy Chief Tied To Laundry Deal

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A U. S. Navy chief petty officer and a Chinese laundryman were held today in an investigation of the leakage of confidential warship movements to an enterprising laundry.

Charles W. Barlow, Navy chief quartermaster from Charleston, W. Va., "is being held for investigation by Navy authorities for alleged violation of security regulations," the Navy announced.

"The investigation has to do with suspicion of passing classified information concerning ship arrivals to two Chinese laundrymen, who used the information to gain an advantage over their competitors in the ship-to-shore laundry business," it added.

Riot Squad On Patrol At Indiana Plant

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—A National Guard riot squad was on patrol here today as the result of rumors of a possible strike demonstration at the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry.

The 25 guardsmen on duty were all that were left of 1,000 who moved three weeks ago int othree cities where Perfect Circle plants are located.

They were called up after eight persons were wounded in an exchange of gunfire between strike sympathizers uotside the plant and nonstrikers inside.

The CIO United Auto Workers went on strike at the New Castle, Hagerstown and Richmond plants of Perfect Circle in a contract dispute July 25.

Capt. William Scott, acting deputy adjutant general, said the small contingent of troops has enough tear gas and ammunition "to handle anything that might come up."

Mayor Paul F. McCormack banned all parades and demonstrations after hearing that strike sympathizers might gather again.

"They were just rumors and we weren't able to pin them down, but we aren't taking any chances," McCormack said.

The resumption of National Guard patrols was ordered after eight windows were smashed by stones at the foundry Tuesday night. Guards saw no one around the plant, and police said vandals may have thrown the stones.

Sinatra said she will appear in other films made by his company.

Commie Hand Seen Needling Ancient Feud

Reds Believed Offering Military Aid To Both Israel, Arab States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Friction between Israel and Egypt continued today in the Holy Land as top American officials labeled the Middle East as having become the most critical theater of the Cold War.

There was some evidence that the Communists, mainly in Russia, were playing both ends of the ancient dispute toward the middle—that is, fomenting trouble by offering military aid to both Israel and the Arab states, long at bitter odds.

Israeli military spokesmen claimed that Egyptian and Syrian military units had penetrated Israeli territory in two different demilitarized zones and said one Syrian soldier was believed killed.

The Egyptians were reported to have crossed into the El Auga-Nizana zone near the Sinai border and entrenched themselves. This position, the Israeli spokesman said, is in addition to the one near the El Sabha checkpost held by the Egyptians for some time. It is about half a mile inside Israeli territory, south of Beerotayim.

* * *

ANOTHER spokesman earlier said a Syrian military unit entered the demilitarized zone near Dan in northeastern Galilee and clashed with an Israeli police patrol, then withdrew. He said the Syrians took the body of one man back with them across the border. The Dan demilitarized zone is near the site of Biblical Dan and close to the Jordan River sources.

The Egyptian intrusion near El Sabha, according to the Israelis, is at a point 200 yards inside Israeli territory.

U. S. informants said Russia and its Communist allies undoubtedly plan to step up pressure in the months ahead, mainly by channeling weapons to Arab countries such as Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia. Also expected are new Soviet offers of economic aid.

Diplomatic officials said it was extremely unlikely the Soviets would heed Western pleas

Jersey Solon Urged To Bid For Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends are urging Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) to bid for New Jersey's 38 GOP presidential nominating votes as part of a burgeoning "favorite son" movement in both major political parties.

The Case instance parallels that of some other staunch supporters of President Eisenhower who probably wouldn't have given a thought to any "favorite son" maneuvers if a heart attack hadn't cast doubt on whether the President will run.

There is a growing belief among Republican strategists that if the President declines to run in 1956 he may give his blessing to a half dozen or more younger Republicans he might consider fit for top place on the ticket.

The general assumption is that any designation of this sort would include close associates like Vice President Nixon, Presidential Assistant Harold E. Stassen, U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

But leaders agree no such listing could ignore governors and members of Congress.

Among these, Case has carved himself a niche in the Senate, along with some GOP coleagues from less politically powerful states such as Senators Allott of Colorado, Carlson of Kansas and Payne of Maine. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) has been spoken of as a presidential favorite in the House.

Navy Turns Down Male Nurse Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said today it doesn't want any male nurses. In the foreseeable future, a spokesman declared, it will continue to give commissions only to females in the corps.

The Navy thus disagrees with the Army, which already has started commissioning male nurses.

A Navy spokesman pointed out that the new law does not require it to put men into the Nurse Corps. Anyway, he added, the Navy has no need to hire male nurses to go into battlefields as does the Army.

Big Four Ministers Open Conference

Unification Of Germany Labeled As Major Item On Geneva Agenda

GENEVA (AP) — Russia and the Western powers opened another historic conference here today to see whether they can agree upon a formula for unifying Germany and securing permanent peace in Europe.

Foreign ministers of the Big Four nations settled down to work in the Palace of Nations.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan of Britain and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay had agreed beforehand to press Russia's V. M. Molotov to accept German unity on Western terms.

They were prepared to confront the Soviet diplomatic chief with a two - part program, offering to guarantee Russia against German aggression in future if Russia will agree to merge East and West Germany through nationwide free elections. The Western ministers are convinced a free German vote would be overwhelmingly anti-Communist.

Barring a reversal of established Soviet policy, Molotov was expected to insist that before Germany can be unified new conditions must be created in Europe by abolishing the North Atlantic Alliance and building up a new European wide security system.

* * *

BUT LOOMING before the foreign mnisters, although not taken into account in preconference planning, was the fear that Middle East tensions would flare into full-scale shooting war.

New frontier clashes between Israel and Egypt have heightened these fears, as did recent shipments of Communist arms to Egypt from Czechoslovakia.

Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett flew in to Geneva today and said his country would fight a preventive war if necessary but "I hope to God she will not be driven to this."

Sharett said he came to Geneva to see Molotov and the Western foreign ministers about Communist sale of arms to Egypt. Sharett's address in Geneva will be entitled "Chemin Krieg," which translated into English means war path.

Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay were reported to have decided against rushing arms to Israel or formally guaranteeing its security at this time. They evidently hoped to redress the situation by other means.

The Western ministers have arranged to confer regularly among themselves in order to maintain the solid front they consider their greatest single source of strength in dealing with the Russians.

The four ministers are meeting in the Council Room of the Palace of Nations, where the Big Four heads of government laid out general objectives at a summit conference three months ago.

It was that gathering of government heads which developed, particularly between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Bulganin, the cordial relations and declarations for peace which have come to be known the world over as the "spirit of Geneva."

Now Dulles, Macmillan, Pinay and Molotov are putting that spirit to the hard test of turning generalities into accomplishments.

Argentina Bled Into Red By Dictator

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A policy of "austerity, work and sacrifice" with no promise of "pie in the sky" was before the Argentine people today as the new government called for a stringent program of economic rebuilding.

Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi said last night Argentina is confronted with the "most disastrous situation in our economic history." He put the blame squarely on ousted President Juan D. Peron, saying the "irresponsible and corrupt" 10-year rule of the fallen dictator had left economic chaos.

Making a detailed report over a nationwide radio hookup, Lonardi said the nation's gold and dollar reserves totaled $1,680,000,000 at the end of World War II. Now, he said, Argentina has an internal debt of $5 billion, a foreign debt of $757 million and reserves of only $450 million.

Argentina piled up vast reserves during World War II by selling wheat and meat to the Allied powers. When Peron came to power at the end of the war, Argentina was at its highest pinnacle of wealth from wartime profits.

"The system of hiding the truth has ended," Lonardi said. "Ten years of irresponsibility and corruption have led us to the most disastrous situation in our economic history."

No 'Present Danger' Seen In Commies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Legal counsel for 11 defendants in a Smith Act trial starting here next week contends the nation no longer faces a 'clear and present danger."

That was the substance of a motion offered in federal court, asking dismissal of indictments against the 11, accused by the prosecution of being minor leaders of the Communist Party.

The basis of the defense contention was that legal doctrine long has recognized that free speech may be curbed only when the nation faces a "clear and present danger." It conceded such a danger existed five years ago when a group of Communist leaders was tried. The Supreme Court ruled to that effect in upholding the convictions.

Slain Woman's Sister Pleads For Murderer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Jimmie Lee Baker was convicted of murdering a minister's wife and sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday after the sister of the dead woman told the court, "Two wrongs never made a right."

Mrs. Clyde Forster asked that Baker be spared from execution in the electric chair.

The slain woman was Mrs. Lucille Quarles, 50, beaten to death in her home Feb. 14.

Witnesses quoted Baker as saying he and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Watson, had planned to kidnap Mrs. Quarles for money but later decided to rob her. Baker led officers to the spot where he had buried the small loot he obtained.

Mrs. Forster of Signal Mountain, Tenn., told the court:

"My sister was shown no mercy but two wrongs never made a right. I've faced many tragedies in my life but this was my greatest.

"As a mother and as a sister who reared this sister of mine who was killed in cold - blooded murder, I ask you to give this man life imprisonment and may God have mercy on his soul."

After the sentencing, B. F. Baker, Houston retired minister and father of Jimmie Lee, grabbed Mrs. Forster's arm and said, with tears in his eyes, "Thank you, thank you."

Baker originally entered a plea of innocent but changed the plea to guilty yesterday.

French Premier Asks New, Risky Vote Of Confidence

PARIS (AP) — Premier Edgar Faure, recent victor in two crucial tests in the National Assembly, today demanded a third and even riskier vote of confidence.

The result could throw him and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay out of office at the very start of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Geneva.

Backed into a corner by defeat on two procedural questions, Faure shut off further debate until tomorrow by demanding a vote of confidence. Until the vote, the premier, a master of political maneuvering, has an opportunity to drum up support.

Had a decisive vote been taken this morning, he probably would have been beaten.

The point that the Big Four foreign ministers were starting their meeting in Geneva today seemed to have caused no hesitancy among deputies who want to throw the government out.

* * *

IT WAS THE same way last week when the premier asked for a vote of confidence on Algerian policy. He won that one easily 308-254 after the deputies had a weekend for reflection, though on a preliminary procedural question they had defeated him 305-274.

Faure asked for a vote of confidence this time after the deputies voted 289-286 to take up a Socialist resolution refusing their confidence.

Earlier, the Assembly refused 303-275 to give priority to a mild government formula "taking note" of government declarations on its general policies.

Technically, the vote tomorrow will be on this government resolution.

But actually it pits opponents of Faure's plan for a general election in December, at least under present electoral laws, against those in favor.

Faure has proposed to cut short the life of the present Parliament, which normally would continue until next June, in order to eliminate some politics from decisions pending on North Africa.

During the debate orators showered criticism on the government for a series of French misfortunes. These included: the anti-Europeanization vote in the Saar plebiscite; chief of state Bao Dai; the possibility that Mohammed Ben Youssef, anti-French Sultan of Morocco may soon be back on his throne.

The debate started over a demand for information on what measures the government plans to take to meet the heavy expenses of military operations in North Africa. Finance Minister Pierre Pflimlin, however, painted a rosy picture of French finances and said the deputies need have no fears about tax increases.

Navy Chief Tied To Laundry Deal

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A U. S. Navy chief petty officer and a Chinese laundryman were held today in an investigation of the leakage of confidential warship movements to an enterprising laundry.

Charles W. Barlow, Navy chief quartermaster from Charleston, W. Va., "is being held for investigation by Navy authorities for alleged violation of security regulations," the Navy announced.

"The investigation has to do with suspicion of passing classified information concerning ship arrivals to two Chinese laundrymen, who used the information to gain an advantage over their competitors in the ship-to-shore laundry business," it added.

Riot Squad On Patrol At Indiana Plant

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—A National Guard riot squad was on patrol here today as the result of rumors of a possible strike demonstration at the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry.

The 25 guardsmen on duty were all that were left of 1,000 who moved three weeks ago int othree cities where Perfect Circle plants are located.

They were called up after eight persons were wounded in an exchange of gunfire between strike sympathizers uotside the plant and nonstrikers inside.

The CIO United Auto Workers went on strike at the New Castle, Hagerstown and Richmond plants of Perfect Circle in a contract dispute July 25.

Capt. William Scott, acting deputy adjutant general, said the small contingent of troops has enough tear gas and ammunition "to handle anything that might come up."

Mayor Paul F. McCormack banned all parades and demonstrations after hearing that strike sympathizers might gather again.

"They were just rumors and we weren't able to pin them down, but we aren't taking any chances," McCormack said.

The resumption of National Guard patrols was ordered after eight windows were smashed by stones at the foundry Tuesday night. Guards saw no one around the plant, and police said vandals may have thrown the stones.

Reds Believed Offering Military Aid To Both Israel, Arab States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Friction between Israel and Egypt continued today in the Holy Land as top American officials labeled the Middle East as having become the most critical theater of the Cold War.

There was some evidence that the Communists, mainly in Russia, were playing both ends of the ancient dispute toward the middle—that is, fomenting trouble by offering military aid to both Israel and the Arab states, long at bitter odds.

Israeli military spokesmen claimed that Egyptian and Syrian military units had penetrated Israeli territory in two different demilitarized zones and said one Syrian soldier was believed killed.

The Egyptians were reported to have crossed into the El Auga-Nizana zone near the Sinai border and entrenched themselves. This position, the Israeli spokesman said, is in addition to the one near the El Sabha checkpost held by the Egyptians for some time. It is about half a mile inside Israeli territory, south of Beerotayim.

* * *

ANOTHER spokesman earlier said a Syrian military unit entered the demilitarized zone near Dan in northeastern Galilee and clashed with an Israeli police patrol, then withdrew. He said the Syrians took the body of one man back with them across the border. The Dan demilitarized zone is near the site of Biblical Dan and close to the Jordan River sources.

The Egyptian intrusion near El Sabha, according to the Israelis, is at a point 200 yards inside Israeli territory.

U. S. informants said Russia and its Communist allies undoubtedly plan to step up pressure in the months ahead, mainly by channeling weapons to Arab countries such as Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia. Also expected are new Soviet offers of economic aid.

Diplomatic officials said it was extremely unlikely the Soviets would heed Western pleas

In fact, I'm what is known as a "Chain Beaner" and I think we should set aside a National Holiday in honor of the little rescals. We could have a Jelly Bean Anthem which could be called "Hurray for the Red, White and Blue—and Locorice" and also we should acquaint people with Jelly Bean facts such as the fact that Marlon Brando mumbles because he's always got a mouthful of Jelly Beans. And do you know why Napoleon always kept his hand under his coat? To protect his bag of Jelly Beans from Josephine.

Ag Secretary Rapped Anew, Changes Plans

on a European tour next month in an effort to promote U. S. farm exports.

Benson said he will again seek Congress' approval of "several administration recommendations not acted upon this year." He listed among these the administration's program for low income farmers, repeal of marketing quota penalties on goods used on the farm where grown and "further study" to diverting to soil building and conservation crop acreage not currently needed for food and fiber.

Meanwhile, the touring Senate Agriculture Committee was finding strong support in the Midwest for a program that would use federal funds to pay farmers to produce less rather than use them to buy up surpluses.

At hearings held so far at St. Paul and Worthington, Minn., and Des Moines, more farmers have endorsed such a plan than any other.

The committee, which plans to go to all major farming areas of the country in search of ideas on how to restore agricultural stability, also found support for the idea among witnesses scheduled to appear at a hearing here today.

Perhaps the biggest boost given the plan were endorsements made in Des Moines yesterday by President Howard Hill of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and H. E. Flusher of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

They told the committee that the present decline in farm prices reflects overproduction. They said the only cure is to limit output, but they declared present programs continue to promote a pile-up of costly surpluses.

Hill said that his suggested program would cost upwards of $1 billion a year, but that this amount would be no more than the cost of present farm programs.

Senate committee members indicated they are weighing the plan most seriously.

Meanwhile, in Rochester, N.Y., a National Grange official said the nation's farmers could become victims of a "cheap food policy" if agriculture groups aren't alert to sound improvements in the farm program.

Roy A. Battles of Cincinnati, assistant to the National Grange master, told the annual meeting of New York State Grange yesterday there is "no reason why we can't have an agriculture policy that would be fair to farmers and consumers alike."

to stop arms shipments to prevent a potentially disastrous Arab-Israeli arms race.

In fact, there was some evidence the Russians might be trying to foment trouble by spurring on both sides. The State Department said yesterday it had new information that "approaches have been made by Soviet bloc sources to Israeli representatives," apparently with the idea of supplying war gear to the Jewish state too.

The Western Allies appear to have no concrete program for countering the Soviet moves. The State Department is reported to feel its main role is to watch developments carefully while urging all concerned to remain calm.

Some top U. S. officials, however, are known to believe such a wait-and-see policy will be insufficient to meet the Russian challenge. They believe urgent priority attention should be given to the Middle East, perhaps in the shape of stepped-up American aid to Arab nations for irrigation and other development projects.

Ag Secretary Rapped Anew, Changes Plans

on a European tour next month in an effort to promote U. S. farm exports.

Benson said he will again seek Congress' approval of "several administration recommendations not acted upon this year." He listed among these the administration's program for low income farmers, repeal of marketing quota penalties on goods used on the farm where grown and "further study" to diverting to soil building and conservation crop acreage not currently needed for food and fiber.

Meanwhile, the touring Senate Agriculture Committee was finding strong support in the Midwest for a program that would use federal funds to pay farmers to produce less rather than use them to buy up surpluses.

At hearings held so far at St. Paul and Worthington, Minn., and Des Moines, more farmers have endorsed such a plan than any other.

The committee, which plans to go to all major farming areas of the country in search of ideas on how to restore agricultural stability, also found support for the idea among witnesses scheduled to appear at a hearing here today.

Perhaps the biggest boost given the plan were endorsements made in Des Moines yesterday by President Howard Hill of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and H. E. Flusher of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

They told the committee that the present decline in farm prices reflects overproduction. They said the only cure is to limit output, but they declared present programs continue to promote a pile-up of costly surpluses.

Hill said that his suggested program would cost upwards of $1 billion a year, but that this amount would be no more than the cost of present farm programs.

Senate committee members indicated they are weighing the plan most seriously.

Meanwhile, in Rochester, N.Y., a National Grange official said the nation's farmers could become victims of a "cheap food policy" if agriculture groups aren't alert to sound improvements in the farm program.

Roy A. Battles of Cincinnati, assistant to the National Grange master, told the annual meeting of New York State Grange yesterday there is "no reason why we can't have an agriculture policy that would be fair to farmers and consumers alike."

to stop arms shipments to prevent a potentially disastrous Arab-Israeli arms race.

In fact, there was some evidence the Russians might be trying to foment trouble by spurring on both sides. The State Department said yesterday it had new information that "approaches have been made by Soviet bloc sources to Israeli representatives," apparently with the idea of supplying war gear to the Jewish state too.

The Western Allies appear to have no concrete program for countering the Soviet moves. The State Department is reported to feel its main role is to watch developments carefully while urging all concerned to remain calm.

Some top U. S. officials, however, are known to believe such a wait-and-see policy will be insufficient to meet the Russian challenge. They believe urgent priority attention should be given to the Middle East, perhaps in the shape of stepped-up American aid to Arab nations for irrigation and other development projects.

Ohio School Problem Seen Being Solved

'Grass Roots' Attack Brings Confidence In Continuing Struggle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans concerned about pressing public school problems display confidence they will be solved.

"Grass-roots" delegates to the second Ohio White House Conference on Education said the feeling stemmed from mounting public interest in school matters.

A total of 327 delegates from 84 counties braved a chill rain to attend the education meeting at Ohio State University. Some arose at 5 a. m. to drive to Columbus for the all-day session.

They received only expenses and a free luncheon in OS's Student Union. The money came from a federal appropriation.

Sixty-eight of the delegates will go to Washington for the White House Conference on Education Nov. 28-Dec. 1. Gov. Frank J. Lausche and R. M. Eyman of Lancaster, state superintendent of public instruction, plan to accompany them.

Delegates will carry Ohio's recommendations for consideration with those of other states on the best way to solve teacher shortages, overcrowded classrooms and other school problems.

Dr. John Herrick, OSU education professor and head of the state conference, said the Ohio recommendations will be made public early next month.

But what impressed delegates was the widespread public interest generated in schools through selection of conference representatives.

More than 13,000 school-minded citizens in convention-type county meetings selected representatives to attend the Columbus meeting. Delegates said the 111 county meetings received detailed and widespread newspaper coverage, indicating growing public interest in schools.

They hope Congress will take to heart the final recommendations of the White House conference. But even if the law-makers "file and forget" the conference report, Ohio delegates say the interest in schools aroused by the local meetings will continue.

They adopted a resolution by G. R. Griswold of Cleveland, president of an Ohio Assn. of Private Schools, calling for the new state school board to promote similar Ohio meetings in the future.

The Ohio White House Conference group goes out of existence as an organization at year-end. The new state school board, to be elected in the Nov. 8 balloting, will take office next Jan. 1.

Dr. Herrick is executive director of the Ohio White House organization. State Rep. William L. Manahan of Defiance presided at the Columbus meeting last Monday.

Dr. Herrick and Manahan said the broad representation in Ohio's delegation to the White House meeting indicated revived school interest was widespread.

Delegates will go to Washington from 47 of Ohio's 88 counties. They will include 15 educators, 12 housewives, 11 manufacturers, nine businessmen, seven farmers, five professional men, four labor leaders, two legislators and a minister. Occupations of two "miscellaneous" delegates were not listed.

Pre-FDR Book Fund Gets Judge's Nod

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Probate Judge Walter Dixon has upheld a Rockford woman's will leaving $16,000 to Rockford College to be used for books reflecting "the American way of life" before the Franklin D. Roosevelt era.

The bequest, and stipulation, were contained in the will disposing of the $64,000 estate of Mrs. Mabel H. Herrick, who died March 20, 1954.

Miss Jennie A. Walker, of Chicago, a sister of the dead woman, sued to break the will and get the college's share.

Religious Revival In Colleges Seen

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Methodist Church's Interboard Committee on Missionary Education reports signs of a religious awakening on college campuses.

"It is too early yet to call it a movement, but there is no doubt that on most college campuses across the country there is an unmistakeable revival interest in religion, particularly as it relates to peace and world citizenship," said the Rev. R. C. Singleton of New York City, student worker for the Methodist Board of Missions.

Senator Shaw Opposes CIO On Jobless Pay

Pickaway County's Spokesman Cites Increased Benefits

Robert R. Shaw, of Columbus, a member of the Ohio Senate representing Pickaway and Franklin counties, has announced his active opposition to the CIO initiated proposed law to increase unemployment benefits.

Shaw, a member of the Senate commerce and labor committee which approved the present law voted during the past legislative session, pointed out:

"The legislature has been more than fair in its approach to the problem by steadily increasing the benefits during the last 16 years . . .and the legislature increased payments by another 10 percent commencing in October of this year".

The CIO proposal will appear as Issue 4 on the November 8th ballot.

* * *

IN CONDEMNING the CIO measure, Shaw said:

". . .the Unemployment Compensation Law has been given thorough and complete consideration by the Ohio legislature after hearing arguments by the leaders of both of the problem. It would certainly seem that the labor committee is best able to judge the merits of the matter rather than leaving it to the public to determine this important issue through initiative petition."

The Ohio legislature held hearings on the CIO bill during the last legislature session and rejected it as unsound and unwise.

Shaw declared that the CIO proposal would place unemployment compensation completely out of perspective with the other costs of government.

Shaw thus joins other Ohio leaders who have been strong in their opposition to the CIO measure. This list includes Governor Frank J. Lausche, who terms it "fantastic"; U. S. Senator John Bricker; Representative Roger Cloud, speaker of the Ohio house of representatives; Horace Troop, chairman of the labor and industry committee, which held hearings on the bill.

DEFIANCE (AP)—A two-truck collision yesterday on Ohio 111 near here fatally injured James C. Geething, 72, of Grover Hill in Paulding County.

Dad Enters Plea In Kidnaping Case

ZANESVILLE (AP)—A plea of innocent has been entered for Thomas E. Campbell, 28, charged with conspiring to abduct his own two small children last May 30 from an aunt and uncle.

They were given custody after the children were found abandoned. Campbell will be given a preliminary hearing today.

His wife, Nancy, 19, has pleaded guilty to the same charge. The children later were found unharmed with their mother.

Parley Continues To Avert Strike

DAYTON (AP)—Negotiations continue today in an effort to halt a walkout of 1,750 Dayton Power and Light Co. employes in 23 southwestern Ohio counties.

The current contract expired last midnight between the company and Local 175, CIO Utility Workers of America. Robert Murphy, local president, said the union has extended the contract on a day-to-day basis. He said a 24-hour notice would be given before a strike call.

The union said it is asking a 20-cent hourly boost, including fringe benefits, and a one-year contract. The company has offered a four per cent wage boost and a three-year contract. Current wage scales were not available.

IN CONDEMNING the CIO measure, Shaw said:

". . .the Unemployment Compensation Law has been given thorough and complete consideration by the Ohio legislature after hearing arguments by the leaders of both of the problem. It would certainly seem that the labor committee is best able to judge the merits of the matter rather than leaving it to the public to determine this important issue through initiative petition."

The Ohio legislature held hearings on the CIO bill during the last legislature session and rejected it as unsound and unwise.

Shaw declared that the CIO proposal would place unemployment compensation completely out of perspective with the other costs of government.

Shaw thus joins other Ohio leaders who have been strong in their opposition to the CIO measure. This list includes Governor Frank J. Lausche, who terms it "fantastic"; U. S. Senator John Bricker; Representative Roger Cloud, speaker of the Ohio house of representatives; Horace Troop, chairman of the labor and industry committee, which held hearings on the bill.

Injuries Fatal

DEFIANCE (AP)—A two-truck collision yesterday on Ohio 111 near here fatally injured James C. Geething, 72, of Grover Hill in Paulding County.

Dad Enters Plea In Kidnaping Case

ZANESVILLE (AP)—A plea of innocent has been entered for Thomas E. Campbell, 28, charged with conspiring to abduct his own two small children last May 30 from an aunt and uncle.

They were given custody after the children were found abandoned. Campbell will be given a preliminary hearing today.

His wife, Nancy, 19, has pleaded guilty to the same charge. The children later were found unharmed with their mother.

Parley Continues To Avert Strike

DAYTON (AP)—Negotiations continue today in an effort to halt a walkout of 1,750 Dayton Power and Light Co. employes in 23 southwestern Ohio counties.

The current contract expired last midnight between the company and Local 175, CIO Utility Workers of America. Robert Murphy, local president, said the union has extended the contract on a day-to-day basis. He said a 24-hour notice would be given before a strike call.

The union said it is asking a 20-cent hourly boost, including fringe benefits, and a one-year contract. The company has offered a four per cent wage boost and a three-year contract. Current wage scales were not available.

IN BEHALF OF HEALTH

IF YOU ARE something of an oldster you may have worn a sack of asafoetida around your neck to ward off winter ills. Grandfather carried a buckeye in his pocket as a charm against rheumatism. Children were dosed with sulphur and molasses as a spring tonic, presumed to thin the blood. There were patented remedies for all sorts of diseases, and so-called tonics were consumed by the gallon. All in behalf of health.

Medical science has made great progress since those days, but man still turns to all sorts of suggestions presumed to make life more pleasant and the days less rigorous. Practically every medicine cabinet is full of vitamins, presumed to make up food deficiencies.

Meat and vegetables no longer suffice to keep the human machine going. Diets have become more important than ever before. Food faddists are having their day. In addition to all this almost daily suggestions are given for starting off the morning routine.

The latest idea is credited to a London physician. The plan may be effective—at least it is harmless. The doctor says you'll have a much better day if you'll just wiggle your toes when you wake up. Take a good stretch, then wiggle.

You should try to wake up hungry, and make a beeline for the kitchen, he adds. But not so hungry you forget to wiggle.

Asafoetida, buckeyes, sulphur and molasses, wiggling toes. Thus man progresses toward perfect health and well being.

NEAR SPEED OF SOUND

OTHER passenger-carrying airlines are planning to place orders for jet airliners, according to news reports, following on the heels of the $269 million contracts for such craft entered into by Pan American Airways. No one now doubts that in less than five years air passenger service will approach the speed of sound.

Juan T. Trippe, Pan American president, exults: "This is the most important aviation development since Lindbergh's flight." The president of Boeing — which will build 20 of the 45 planes ordered—remarks succinctly that all of a sudden the world has become "40 per cent smaller."

Any suspicion that this is just a publicity gimmick is dispelled by the amazing savings in time that will be possible when jet airplanes are carrying passengers around the world. The present 11-hour schedule from New York to Paris will be cut to 6 hours, 35 minutes. San Francisco will be 5 hours from New York, instead of 8.

This latest advance comes only 11 years after the Germans launched the jet era with a Messerschmitt fighter. While military aviation entered the field immediately, commercial aviation was slow to follow. Britain's trouble with its first commercial jets, the Comets, delayed adoption of this type of power.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Duane Kellogg of Stratford, Connecticut, has come up with an idea which he calls "negative voting." As I understand this concept, the citizens could vote against a candidate without voting for anyone. Maybe, it is more intricate than that, but I have not given it too much thought because my own concept is different.

I regard voting as a privilege, not an obligation. When I have no one to vote for, I do not vote. I believe in political parties and in the functioning of the two party system in this country. It has not been my experience over 50 years of observation that the non-party politician, the so-called independent, is worth very much, under our system, when he, by some accident, is elected to public office.

The most recent manifestation of this non-partisan, bi-partisan, any or no party personality are the members of the A.D.A. who seem to me to be mostly opportunists.

In the present campaign we see some extremely interesting characteristics of our system:

As long as President Eisenhower is sick, most professional Republicans favor Richard Nixon as his successor, This is inevitable because Nixon could, at any moment, become President by constitutional processes.

Should President Eisenhower return to the White House and make no declaration as to the future, the Republicans will become confused as to what they should do. They will all switch to Eisenhower on the assumption that if he runs again, they had better not be caught flirting with anyone else. At the same time, they will be making deals as to what they might do, should he decide not to run in 1956. No professional dares be caught without some affiliation.

As it stands now, the woods are full of candidates for President and Vice President. Some are absurd; they could not make the grade under any circumstances. Many are favorite sons who will receive a complimentary vote on the first ballot. Some are being dragged out by special interests to detract attention or votes from a popular candidate. As a practical proposition, only three or four have any chance of being taken seriously.

No Republican can surely be a candidate for the Presidency as long as there is any chance at all of President Eisenhower running for another term.

The Democrats are having their troubles too. The opposition to Adlai Stevenson is growing. The professionals intend to cut his throat. The independents mean nothing in any pre-convention maneuvers because what counts are delegates and they are all professionals. The professionals do not want an A.D.A. Administration camouflaged as a Democratic Administration.

The chief opponents of Adlai Stevenson are Averell Harriman and Estes Kefauver. The silent candidate is Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio. Each has a good chance, in fact, a better chance than Stevenson, because the professional Democrats do not want Stevenson.

The movement for Lausche is voluntary and represents a strong desire for a more conservative candidate. Harriman's hopes are not even slightly affected by the dissent of Senator Herbert Lehman who, while respected in the Senate, does not cut much political ice. He is regarded as emotionally unstable in his attitudes toward other men, probably because nearly everybody is so much his junior that he remembers them when they were boys.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

FROM the kitchen came the muted sound of running water, the tinkle of silver, the scraping of kettles and the voices of women.

Carol stretched out comfortably. "So that's Jane. I never pictured her like that. Roger was always so generous, never a word against her. He said she was a fine person. But I'd have expected her to be more attractive, wouldn't you? Do you think it's true that she won't write about Roger?"

"We have the same agent," Lois said. "She would never set us at conflicting jobs."

"I suppose not. Still, it's queer that Jane should come back here now unless she wants something. She hasn't been in Stoweville since the divorce and now she comes back just when Roger dies. I heard she was in town and at the—the services—though I didn't see her myself. Unless she thinks—but Roger didn't leave her a cent. Anyhow," Carol conceded, "I don't believe she is mercenary. She wouldn't accept a cent of alimony from Roger, though he felt awful about it."

She brooded for a moment. "I wonder just how Shandy will get out of taking her to dinner. He's never gone to public places since the war because of the way he looked. Getting him here to lunch was an achievement, I can tell you." Her voice changed. "Unless he wanted to see you again."

With a murmured excuse Lois got up to leave.

"I'm terribly sorry," Carol told her. "You know I made that idiotic mistake about the day you were coming and I'm dining with Dr. Thomas and his wife tonight. They wanted me to get away from the house and my great sorrow for a little while. So I've asked Bessie to fix you a tray. Do you mind?"

Lois assured her that she did not mind in the least and went out into the broiling sun with a feeling of escape. She strolled up the path through the woods that led to her cottage, in the dark shade of the trees, watching a tiny orange lizard scramble over a minute twig.

Their were voices at her cottage; evidently the Hatterys were at work. But when she came in sight of the place she saw that the voices belonged to Shandy Stowe and Joe Hattery.

". . . as a second offender," Shandy was saying.

"I'm not going back to prison. Nobody's going to railroad me."

"Nobody is trying to. But I warn you to drop this now."

"Yeah? I'm not dumb, Mr. Stowe, I got eyes and 20/20 vision."

"And a big mouth. Watch it, Hattery, or you'll be sorry you were born."

Hattery brushed off his hands with a gesture that was vaguely impertinent, faintly challenging. Then he straightened and saw Lois. Warned by his eyes, Shandy turned around.

"Hi there," he said cheerfully. "The Hatterys have the cottage nearly ready. Ethel has the place cleaned; she's getting fresh bedding and soap and towels. Joe will put that windowpane in for you and bring you an electric heater." He steered her quickly inside the house as though eager to get her out of Hattery's presence.

Already the cottage looked more cheerful. It was spotlessly clean, the Dutch door was wide open. On the big worktable were piled a dozen or more heavy scrapbooks.

Shandy looked around dubiously. "Does it look all right? Anything more you need?"

"Thanks, it's fine."

"Of course."

He looked down at her with a faint smile. "Tomorrow, then. It's good to have you here; better than good. I never really expected to see you again. As though a chapter had ended. Or the whole book." For a moment he bent over as though he were going to kiss her; then he changed his mind and went quickly out of the cottage.

Lois lighted a cigaret, settled down at the oversized table that had been Roger Brindle's and arranged the scrapbooks in chronological order. They contained all his columns from the beginning, twenty years before, with one volume devoted to pictures. She opened this one first. It was, she discovered in surprise, simply an old-fashioned picture album.

Each picture had been neatly dated with name printed underneath. The grim pair on the first page were Sarah and Jeremy Grant; Sarah, comic in leg of mutton sleeves, a large plumed hat and trailing skirt, was not comic in the thinness of her mouth, the flaring of her nostrils. She appeared to be the sister of Roger's father and it was she and her husband who had brought up the boy after the death of his parents. Not, Lois ruminated, a congenial home for a small child. Her agile imagination pictured the boy being sent back to close doors noiselessly, scraping his shoes before entering a spotless kitchen, being seen and not heard at table.

She studied carefully the pictures of Roger as a small boy, trying to learn something from the child he had been. He had always been homely, but even in group pictures, taken with other children, his was a face to which one turned back. He had the elusive, intangible thing called charm.

There was a sound of heavy breathing behind her and Lois, who had not heard a footstep, turned with a start. A woman with flaxen braids wrapped around her head and a pockmarked face was looking around the cottage as though seeking for something.

"I am Ethel Hattery," she said. "You must be Mrs. Fleming."

Lois held out her hand. "How do you do, Mrs. Hattery. I've looked forward to knowing you."

Ethel smiled faintly. "That's nice of you." She dropped a heap of linen and blankets on a chair. "The place will be ready as soon as the bed is made up. Then you won't be disturbed. I'm used to writers. Mr. Brindle didn't like to have anyone around when he was working."

Smallpox had left her skin pitted and doughy in texture but her features were good. Her eyes disturbed Lois. Hot eyes, she thought. A volcano. She had a healthy distrust of unleashed emotion.

Ethel Hattery opened the big couch, made the bed, hung towels in the bathroom. Lois watched her. "Stalking around like Lady MacBeth," Carol Brindle had said, and had added resentfully, "as though she were the widow."

Not Lady MacBeth, Lois thought. Roger Brindle's secretary was a heroine straight out of one of the Bronte sisters. Not, Lois told herself, that she minded emotion, but she respected its control. If only people didn't pride themselves so on their emotional orgies.

DIET AND HEALTH

You'll Need Vitamins If You're On a Diet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU'VE got to do more in a reducing diet than merely count the calories. You've got to make the calories count as well.

Since you are eating less food, each calorie must be loaded with vitamins, minerals and proteins. It's a good idea to apply this rule to all of your eating, whether you are dieting or not.

Calcium Important

Milk has a fairly high caloric content, but it is also the best known source of calcium. And calcium is one of the most important of all minerals to your body.

It's essential for building strong, straight bones and sound teeth. It's also important for proper functioning of your heart and nervous system. Therefore, you can readily see that milk is important to you no matter what your age.

Eggs also are usually considered "fattening." Actually, they are just the opposite in a reducing diet. To get from other foods the necessary elements they give you would require the eating of a tremendous number of calories. Liver, too, gives you exceptionally good value for the number of calories it contains.

Yet it is difficult to pack enough vitamins and minerals into the reduced number of calories any reducing diet contains.

I suggest you ask your doctor to recommend a supplementary ration of vitamins and minerals.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. J.: My son recently cut himself. He now has an extremely large scar, that the doctor calls a keloid. What can help this?

Answer: Usually a keloid can be helped by local radium or X-ray treatments.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

Margaret Gray, who went all the way from Toledo to Hawaii to perk up the library service at Hilo, tells about a German missionary who loved the life of the islands but clung tenaciously to the customs of his native land. He retained his strong native accent and a certain "mulishness" that his happy-go-lucky flock found very trying at times. One day a parishioner became so provoked with the preacher that he called him a "stupid ass."

The pastor's face darkened. "You haf lost your demper," he thundered. "Goot dot is not. But I am your minister even if you haf called me a stupid ass and I will still bray for you."

Untuned Piano Said Hazard

By HAL BOYLE

CLEARFIELD Pa. (AP) — Al Rockwell lets others worry about international discord. But he can work himself up to a real pitch over the fact most of America's pianos are out of tune.

He is afraid we are rearing a generation of young piano players who won't know middle C from the sound of chipmunks scampering across a tin roof.

Rockwell, a professional musician for 35 years, has tuned more than 8,000 pianos himself. Fearing piano tuning was becoming a dying craft, he started a school to teach this skill 10 years ago. It is one of fewer than a dozen piano tuning schools in the country.

"A piano is the most expensive piece of furniture in most homes," he pointed out. "If something goes wrong with the television set, a repair man is called immediately. But if the piano is a little out of tune—oh, well, it's not worth bothering about."

This chronic apathy keeps Rockwell in a perpetual lather. He is launched on a one-man crusade to create a world in which all pianos are not only tuned properly but kept tuned. He even writes letters to the editor on the subject.

Rockwell first became interested in piano tuning—or, rather, the lack of it—while playing reed instruments with a traveling band at the age of 17. On theater circuits he ran into every type piano imaginable, most of them out of tune.

"When the band complained," he said, "the story was always the same: There was only one tuner in town, and he couldn't be found. The pianos went untuned year after year. They are probably still out of tune."

Rockwell said the situation was even worse in the average home. Parents start a child on piano lessons and the child gets all steamed up after a few sessions on his teacher's piano. But when he goes home to practice on his own old out-of-tune instrument he can't get the same results, and loses interest. He quits taking lessons.

"This happens over and over," insisted Rockwell. "Parents think any old piano is good enough for a child to start on. They say that after they're sure the child is really interested in playing, they'll get a better piano or have the old one brought up to pitch. By then it may be too late. The child's musical ear may be completely ruined."

But Rockwell doesn't go along at all with many music store merchants who say half the nation's pianos are outworn and should be junked and replaced by new ones. He loves pianos as other people love children and has put hundreds of aged and neglected instruments back into playing condition.

"If the frame and plate are in good shape and the piano is all right mechanically, there's no piano that can't be tuned," he said. "For $25 or $30 an old piano can be turned into an instrument quite satisfactory for a child just starting to play. The families that own such pianos can afford to have them tuned, but they can't afford to buy new ones."

Students come from all over the country to attend Rockwell's school in this small mountain town. The course, based on a technical system developed by Oliver Faust, a German musician, takes six months. Rockwell has turned out some 300 graduates, but sees no end to the present shortage of competent trained piano tuners.

He isn't happy about the situation, and won't be so long as he thinks even one child is learning to play on an out-of-tune piano.

IN BEHALF OF HEALTH

IF YOU ARE something of an oldster you may have worn a sack of asafoetida around your neck to ward off winter ills. Grandfather carried a buckeye in his pocket as a charm against rheumatism. Children were dosed with sulphur and molasses as a spring tonic, presumed to thin the blood. There were patented remedies for all sorts of diseases, and so-called tonics were consumed by the gallon. All in behalf of health.

Medical science has made great progress since those days, but man still turns to all sorts of suggestions presumed to make life more pleasant and the days less rigorous. Practically every medicine cabinet is full of vitamins, presumed to make up food deficiencies.

Meat and vegetables no longer suffice to keep the human machine going. Diets have become more important than ever before. Food faddists are having their day. In addition to all this almost daily suggestions are given for starting off the morning routine.

The latest idea is credited to a London physician. The plan may be effective—at least it is harmless. The doctor says you'll have a much better day if you'll just wiggle your toes when you wake up. Take a good stretch, then wiggle.

You should try to wake up hungry, and make a beeline for the kitchen, he adds. But not so hungry you forget to wiggle.

Asafoetida, buckeyes, sulphur and molasses, wiggling toes. Thus man progresses toward perfect health and well being.

NEAR SPEED OF SOUND

OTHER passenger-carrying airlines are planning to place orders for jet airliners, according to news reports, following on the heels of the $269 million contracts for such craft entered into by Pan American Airways. No one now doubts that in less than five years air passenger service will approach the speed of sound.

Juan T. Trippe, Pan American president, exults: "This is the most important aviation development since Lindbergh's flight." The president of Boeing — which will build 20 of the 45 planes ordered—remarks succinctly that all of a sudden the world has become "40 per cent smaller."

Any suspicion that this is just a publicity gimmick is dispelled by the amazing savings in time that will be possible when jet airplanes are carrying passengers around the world. The present 11-hour schedule from New York to Paris will be cut to 6 hours, 35 minutes. San Francisco will be 5 hours from New York, instead of 8.

This latest advance comes only 11 years after the Germans launched the jet era with a Messerschmitt fighter. While military aviation entered the field immediately, commercial aviation was slow to follow. Britain's trouble with its first commercial jets, the Comets, delayed adoption of this type of power.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Duane Kellogg of Stratford, Connecticut, has come up with an idea which he calls "negative voting." As I understand this concept, the citizens could vote against a candidate without voting for anyone. Maybe, it is more intricate than that, but I have not given it too much thought because my own concept is different.

I regard voting as a privilege, not an obligation. When I have no one to vote for, I do not vote. I believe in political parties and in the functioning of the two party system in this country. It has not been my experience over 50 years of observation that the non-party politician, the so-called independent, is worth very much, under our system, when he, by some accident, is elected to public office.

The most recent manifestation of this non-partisan, bi-partisan, any or no party personality are the members of the A.D.A. who seem to me to be mostly opportunists.

In the present campaign we see some extremely interesting characteristics of our system:

As long as President Eisenhower is sick, most professional Republicans favor Richard Nixon as his successor, This is inevitable because Nixon could, at any moment, become President by constitutional processes.

Should President Eisenhower return to the White House and make no declaration as to the future, the Republicans will become confused as to what they should do. They will all switch to Eisenhower on the assumption that if he runs again, they had better not be caught flirting with anyone else. At the same time, they will be making deals as to what they might do, should he decide not to run in 1956. No professional dares be caught without some affiliation.

As it stands now, the woods are full of candidates for President and Vice President. Some are absurd; they could not make the grade under any circumstances. Many are favorite sons who will receive a complimentary vote on the first ballot. Some are being dragged out by special interests to detract attention or votes from a popular candidate. As a practical proposition, only three or four have any chance of being taken seriously.

No Republican can surely be a candidate for the Presidency as long as there is any chance at all of President Eisenhower running for another term.

The Democrats are having their troubles too. The opposition to Adlai Stevenson is growing. The professionals intend to cut his throat. The independents mean nothing in any pre-convention maneuvers because what counts are delegates and they are all professionals. The professionals do not want an A.D.A. Administration camouflaged as a Democratic Administration.

The chief opponents of Adlai Stevenson are Averell Harriman and Estes Kefauver. The silent candidate is Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio. Each has a good chance, in fact, a better chance than Stevenson, because the professional Democrats do not want Stevenson.

The movement for Lausche is voluntary and represents a strong desire for a more conservative candidate. Harriman's hopes are not even slightly affected by the dissent of Senator Herbert Lehman who, while respected in the Senate, does not cut much political ice. He is regarded as emotionally unstable in his attitudes toward other men, probably because nearly everybody is so much his junior that he remembers them when they were boys.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

FROM the kitchen came the muted sound of running water, the tinkle of silver, the scraping of kettles and the voices of women.

Carol stretched out comfortably. "So that's Jane. I never pictured her like that. Roger was always so generous, never a word against her. He said she was a fine person. But I'd have expected her to be more attractive, wouldn't you? Do you think it's true that she won't write about Roger?"

"We have the same agent," Lois said. "She would never set us at conflicting jobs."

"I suppose not. Still, it's queer that Jane should come back here now unless she wants something. She hasn't been in Stoweville since the divorce and now she comes back just when Roger dies. I heard she was in town and at the—the services—though I didn't see her myself. Unless she thinks—but Roger didn't leave her a cent. Anyhow," Carol conceded, "I don't believe she is mercenary. She wouldn't accept a cent of alimony from Roger, though he felt awful about it."

She brooded for a moment. "I wonder just how Shandy will get out of taking her to dinner. He's never gone to public places since the war because of the way he looked. Getting him here to lunch was an achievement, I can tell you." Her voice changed. "Unless he wanted to see you again."

With a murmured excuse Lois got up to leave.

"I'm terribly sorry," Carol told her. "You know I made that idiotic mistake about the day you were coming and I'm dining with Dr. Thomas and his wife tonight. They wanted me to get away from the house and my great sorrow for a little while. So I've asked Bessie to fix you a tray. Do you mind?"

Lois assured her that she did not mind in the least and went out into the broiling sun with a feeling of escape. She strolled up the path through the woods that led to her cottage, in the dark shade of the trees, watching a tiny orange lizard scramble over a minute twig.

Their were voices at her cottage; evidently the Hatterys were at work. But when she came in sight of the place she saw that the voices belonged to Shandy Stowe and Joe Hattery.

". . . as a second offender," Shandy was saying.

"I'm not going back to prison. Nobody's going to railroad me."

"Nobody is trying to. But I warn you to drop this now."

"Yeah? I'm not dumb, Mr. Stowe, I got eyes and 20/20 vision."

"And a big mouth. Watch it, Hattery, or you'll be sorry you were born."

Hattery brushed off his hands with a gesture that was vaguely impertinent, faintly challenging. Then he straightened and saw Lois. Warned by his eyes, Shandy turned around.

"Hi there," he said cheerfully. "The Hatterys have the cottage nearly ready. Ethel has the place cleaned; she's getting fresh bedding and soap and towels. Joe will put that windowpane in for you and bring you an electric heater." He steered her quickly inside the house as though eager to get her out of Hattery's presence.

Already the cottage looked more cheerful. It was spotlessly clean, the Dutch door was wide open. On the big worktable were piled a dozen or more heavy scrapbooks.

Shandy looked around dubiously. "Does it look all right? Anything more you need?"

"Thanks, it's fine."

"Of course."

He looked down at her with a faint smile. "Tomorrow, then. It's good to have you here; better than good. I never really expected to see you again. As though a chapter had ended. Or the whole book." For a moment he bent over as though he were going to kiss her; then he changed his mind and went quickly out of the cottage.

Lois lighted a cigaret, settled down at the oversized table that had been Roger Brindle's and arranged the scrapbooks in chronological order. They contained all his columns from the beginning, twenty years before, with one volume devoted to pictures. She opened this one first. It was, she discovered in surprise, simply an old-fashioned picture album.

Each picture had been neatly dated with name printed underneath. The grim pair on the first page were Sarah and Jeremy Grant; Sarah, comic in leg of mutton sleeves, a large plumed hat and trailing skirt, was not comic in the thinness of her mouth, the flaring of her nostrils. She appeared to be the sister of Roger's father and it was she and her husband who had brought up the boy after the death of his parents. Not, Lois ruminated, a congenial home for a small child. Her agile imagination pictured the boy being sent back to close doors noiselessly, scraping his shoes before entering a spotless kitchen, being seen and not heard at table.

She studied carefully the pictures of Roger as a small boy, trying to learn something from the child he had been. He had always been homely, but even in group pictures, taken with other children, his was a face to which one turned back. He had the elusive, intangible thing called charm.

There was a sound of heavy breathing behind her and Lois, who had not heard a footstep, turned with a start. A woman with flaxen braids wrapped around her head and a pockmarked face was looking around the cottage as though seeking for something.

"I am Ethel Hattery," she said. "You must be Mrs. Fleming."

Lois held out her hand. "How do you do, Mrs. Hattery. I've looked forward to knowing you."

Ethel smiled faintly. "That's nice of you." She dropped a heap of linen and blankets on a chair. "The place will be ready as soon as the bed is made up. Then you won't be disturbed. I'm used to writers. Mr. Brindle didn't like to have anyone around when he was working."

Smallpox had left her skin pitted and doughy in texture but her features were good. Her eyes disturbed Lois. Hot eyes, she thought. A volcano. She had a healthy distrust of unleashed emotion.

Ethel Hattery opened the big couch, made the bed, hung towels in the bathroom. Lois watched her. "Stalking around like Lady MacBeth," Carol Brindle had said, and had added resentfully, "as though she were the widow."

Not Lady MacBeth, Lois thought. Roger Brindle's secretary was a heroine straight out of one of the Bronte sisters. Not, Lois told herself, that she minded emotion, but she respected its control. If only people didn't pride themselves so on their emotional orgies.

DIET AND HEALTH

You'll Need Vitamins If You're On a Diet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU'VE got to do more in a reducing diet than merely count the calories. You've got to make the calories count as well.

Since you are eating less food, each calorie must be loaded with vitamins, minerals and proteins. It's a good idea to apply this rule to all of your eating, whether you are dieting or not.

Calcium Important

Milk has a fairly high caloric content, but it is also the best known source of calcium. And calcium is one of the most important of all minerals to your body.

It's essential for building strong, straight bones and sound teeth. It's also important for proper functioning of your heart and nervous system. Therefore, you can readily see that milk is important to you no matter what your age.

Eggs also are usually considered "fattening." Actually, they are just the opposite in a reducing diet. To get from other foods the necessary elements they give you would require the eating of a tremendous number of calories. Liver, too, gives you exceptionally good value for the number of calories it contains.

Yet it is difficult to pack enough vitamins and minerals into the reduced number of calories any reducing diet contains.

I suggest you ask your doctor to recommend a supplementary ration of vitamins and minerals.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. J.: My son recently cut himself. He now has an extremely large scar, that the doctor calls a keloid. What can help this?

Answer: Usually a keloid can be helped by local radium or X-ray treatments.

All 15 were in the sixth grade together, but the seven did not graduate with the 1905 group since they had left the school for some reason.

After the dinner, the group was entertained at the piano by Mrs. Sarah Egan Couturier of Chicago, who presently composes music. She composed the class song for the 1905 graduating class.

Singing and reminiscing of olden times highlighted the remainder of the evening.

Garden Club Plans Spring Flower Show

Tentative plans for a Spring Flower Show were made by the Mt. Pleasant Garden Club which met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Mavis of Sunshine St.

The Club also planned to sponsor gifts for the best decorated homes in the Kingston community during the Christmas season.

Mrs. Marvin Jones gave a talk using as her topic "Arrangements Made From Dried Materials". She showed several specimens of garden and roadside varieties which may be dried, namely, goldenrod, dock and seed pods.

Flowers were exhibited that had been preserved by using borax and sand. Arrangements using various dried materials were also shown during the lecture.

Mrs. James Tootle, Jr. won first place in the judging of Halloween displays. Mrs. Marvin Jones, second place and Mrs. Harold DeLong and Miss Grace Dresbach tied for third place.

Refreshments were served to twelve members and three guests by Mrs. Mavis and the assisting hostess, Mrs. Jacob Glitt.

Do Fat Girls Become Models?

They certainly do. Many girls have overcome the problem of being overweight, and have claimed their place in the modeling world. Read this letter from Mrs. A. Drouin, 7711 Euclid Ave., Cleveland 3, Ohio. Mrs. Drouin writes: "I was a model up until the time I was married three years ago. At that time I was a perfect size 11 and weighed only 115 Lbs. Then after settling down, I started to put on excessive weight. It interfered quite a lot with my personality and the awful moods it put me in I wouldn't dare mention. A short time ago I read about how Rennel had helped a lot of people to lose weight, and decided to try it. Rennel sure did the trick. Now I am back to my normal weight and again can wear a size 11 dress instead of a size 15 which I have been wearing for three years. I decreased my weight from 135 Lbs. to 115 Lbs. Also I am thinking about going back to my old job modeling again, just because I have a nice figure to show other people and most of all my friends. They sure envy me these days."

Thousands of others have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves — if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on and be sure to get Rennel.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a woman with a very regrettable past. When my husband and I started courting, I was 24 and he 19. When he asked me to marry me, I told him everything, but he insisted I was the only one for him, and that basically I was a wonderful woman, he knew. He said we would start life over together.

At first his great love made amends for my past. We were constant companions and after he was inducted into the Army he poured out his heart to me in letters, telling the kind of home he wanted, etc. While overseas he was unfaithful to me, and I have forgiven him and almost forgotten.

Now we have three wonderful children and he loves them dearly. But for the last five years my premarital past has become a hurt to his pride and his heart. He calls me terrible names. Tells me to get out, that I am not fit to raise his children. Says that he never should have married me, that he was too young to know what he was doing; that he can't forgive me, hates my folks for letting me make such mistakes, etc.

Apologizes, Relapses

Roy gets angry at any reminder of persons I knew before I met him; and I have made it a point to avoid them, and have tried to be an exemplary wife and mother.

I have become a Christian. I teach Sunday School and take my children every Sunday. At times he will say I am on the right track, doing a good job, that I am just like he wants me. And he will ask my help, saying he wants to become a Christian, but that his job makes it necessary for him to drink and keep late hours. Then he won't listen to me or read any good books.

Time and again Roy asks my forgiveness, which is granted, and we make a new start. Promise after promise he has made and broken. I can't leave the children and I can't take them from him. Do you know of any relief for our problem?

E. D.

DEAR E. D.: The humble charitable spirit of your letter indicates that you are a Christian. And the sympathetic character of your wifely concern to be worthy (as it were) of marriage to Roy shows that you don't comprehend how really good you have become.

You have morally outgrown the regrettable past, in your own right; and are well on the way to being a saint, in the troubled present, it seems to me.

It is high time that you and Roy understood something of the truth about the cause of his ugly rant in recent years. Your past is not the agitating factor. Actually, the trouble is, he is seeing life through jaundiced eyes, and mentally rehearsing all the evil he can imagine, because of moral sickness he has brought upon himself—beginning with his adulterous infidelity overseas. That's when morbidly jealous rancors started to cloud his reason.

He gets vocally exercised about your past when down in the dumps about his hidden transgressions, I think. That is, when he feels betrayed by the weakness of his own behavior; or when urgently beset by conflicting forces of emotional disorder — as furtive wrongdoing pulls him one way, and guilty conscience hauls him another way.

Prayer Likely Remedy

Roy defames you, making hideous misuse of your artless confession to him years ago, when he darkly feels farthest off the beam of righteousness. His apologetic whines for forgiveness, and his occasional saying that he wants to become a Christian, except that his job requires drinking, etc., shows that he's not on good terms with himself. Just as his sporadic praise of your consistent goodness shows that he has moments of seeing clearly how he has erred.

I believe that relief for your problem must be sought via prayer. And my suggestion is to read and study Glenn Clark's book "God's Reach" (Macalaster Park publishers)—which lifts the mind from the problem-level of experience, up to the plane of absolute trust in the healing power of the Holy Spirit. On this plane of consciousness, miracles happen.

Well, That Matter Is All Settled Now

COLUMBUS (AP) — Carol Lynn Elliott has her dime back.

Carol is the 8-year-old Columbus girl who sent President Eisenhower a get-well birthday note with a dime attached "for some ice cream." Carol got a thank-you note from Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower. The First Lady told Carol she was returning the dime, though.

Shake the envelope as she would, however, Carol couldn't make it yield the 10-cent piece.

Carol got another letter recently, this one from Mary Jane McCaffree, Mrs. Eisenhower's secretary. It contained the dime.

Students In Cincy Check On Selves

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Student Council has begun considering reports of immorality in Lockland High School.

I. C. Shell, principal, said there will be no closer supervision of corridors than established earlier.

The Rev. D. T. Green told a Monday night board of education meeting that one girl had been stripped of her clothing in the gymnasium during lunch hour a year ago. He also said another girl was photographed in the nude two years ago and pictures distributed amoung classmates.

The minister, who has two daughters enrolled in the elementary classes at the school, also charged "smooching, petting and even worse" by the students.

Dayton Boy, 10, Belatedly Signs Pledge To UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—George Edward Clark, 10, felt he should join 10,000 fellow Daytonians in signing a 350-foot long scroll pledging faith in the goals of the U. N.

When George presented the scroll at U. N. headquarters yesterday, a reporter asked him if he was one of the signers. It occurred to George that he wasn't, but he remedied that quickly with the reporter's pencil.

The signatures were gathered last week at a booth in downtown Dayton as part of that Ohio city's observance of the 10th U. N. anniversary. George was selected to bring the scroll here from among eight Dayton children born on the day the U. N. Charter became effective, Oct. 24, 1945.

He left the scroll for U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Hammarskjold could not leave a meeting to accept it, so George made a token presentation to Ambassador James J. Wadsworth U. S. Deputy Representative to the U. N.

Civil Service Problem Aired

CINCINNATI (AP)—Speakers at a Civil Service assembly here say the professions are a special problem in the organization.

John B. Kaiser, director of the public library at Newark, N. J., told a panel meeting "Problems that the professions present to Civil Service are intensified by the special attributes of the profession."

The librarian field is unique, he declared because it embraces the entire field of knowledge. About reference librarians, he added:

"Too often we feel Civil Service asks questions wanting specific answers, whereas the reference librarian is concerned with the source of knowledge rather than with the direct answer."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a woman with a very regrettable past. When my husband and I started courting, I was 24 and he 19. When he asked me to marry me, I told him everything, but he insisted I was the only one for him, and that basically I was a wonderful woman, he knew. He said we would start life over together.

At first his great love made amends for my past. We were constant companions and after he was inducted into the Army he poured out his heart to me in letters, telling the kind of home he wanted, etc. While overseas he was unfaithful to me, and I have forgiven him and almost forgotten.

Now we have three wonderful children and he loves them dearly. But for the last five years my premarital past has become a hurt to his pride and his heart. He calls me terrible names. Tells me to get out, that I am not fit to raise his children. Says that he never should have married me, that he was too young to know what he was doing; that he can't forgive me, hates my folks for letting me make such mistakes, etc.

Apologizes, Relapses

Roy gets angry at any reminder of persons I knew before I met him; and I have made it a point to avoid them, and have tried to be an exemplary wife and mother.

I have become a Christian. I teach Sunday School and take my children every Sunday. At times he will say I am on the right track, doing a good job, that I am just like he wants me. And he will ask my help, saying he wants to become a Christian, but that his job makes it necessary for him to drink and keep late hours. Then he won't listen to me or read any good books.

Time and again Roy asks my forgiveness, which is granted, and we make a new start. Promise after promise he has made and broken. I can't leave the children and I can't take them from him. Do you know of any relief for our problem?

E. D.

DEAR E. D.: The humble charitable spirit of your letter indicates that you are a Christian. And the sympathetic character of your wifely concern to be worthy (as it were) of marriage to Roy shows that you don't comprehend how really good you have become.

You have morally outgrown the regrettable past, in your own right; and are well on the way to being a saint, in the troubled present, it seems to me.

It is high time that you and Roy understood something of the truth about the cause of his ugly rant in recent years. Your past is not the agitating factor. Actually, the trouble is, he is seeing life through jaundiced eyes, and mentally rehearsing all the evil he can imagine, because of moral sickness he has brought upon himself—beginning with his adulterous infidelity overseas. That's when morbidly jealous rancors started to cloud his reason.

He gets vocally exercised about your past when down in the dumps about his hidden transgressions, I think. That is, when he feels betrayed by the weakness of his own behavior; or when urgently beset by conflicting forces of emotional disorder — as furtive wrongdoing pulls him one way, and guilty conscience hauls him another way.

Prayer Likely Remedy

Roy defames you, making hideous misuse of your artless confession to him years ago, when he darkly feels farthest off the beam of righteousness. His apologetic whines for forgiveness, and his occasional saying that he wants to become a Christian, except that his job requires drinking, etc., shows that he's not on good terms with himself. Just as his sporadic praise of your consistent goodness shows that he has moments of seeing clearly how he has erred.

I believe that relief for your problem must be sought via prayer. And my suggestion is to read and study Glenn Clark's book "God's Reach" (Macalaster Park publishers)—which lifts the mind from the problem-level of experience, up to the plane of absolute trust in the healing power of the Holy Spirit. On this plane of consciousness, miracles happen.

M.H.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—For about three weeks, beginning today, the Big Four foreign ministers will meet in Geneva, talk behind closed doors, issue some public statements perhaps, and probably agree on very little.

A great lack of accomplishment at Geneva should be no surprise.

A look at just one of the problems the ministers intend to discuss—unification of West and East Germany—is enough to show why Russia and the West, now separated by an absolute gulf on that subject, are likely to remain apart.

For years, by various devices which included propaganda, Russia fought the efforts of the United States to get West Germany rearmed and into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Russian tactics were rough and tough. Suddenly this year they switched to a soft line. The switch came only after West Germany was finally admitted to NATO. There were other reasons for the switch besides the German question.

But it seems obvious the Russians, having failed to keep West Germany out of NATO by bluster, could see that by a change in tactics they might still win their point, perhaps a double point:

They might, if they played it shrewdly enough not only get West Germany out of NATO but also even wreck NATO itself by softening up the other Western countries' fear of Russia. In this game the Russians have an ace in the hole.

The West Germans, and the East Germans who are under Communist control, want to be united. The Russians have put a price tag on unification: the Germans cannot be united so long as West Germany remains in NATO.

But the United States and the other Western allies want Germany united too. They have asked the Russians to let the East and West Germans unite by electing their own government in free elections.

All the reports from Europe indicate that if the elections were held now the East and West Germans would vote for a government like that of West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, who is a firm friend of the West.

The United States would hardly be urging the unification of Germany if it did not feel the results would be favorable to the West.

Since this is all obvious enough to the Russians, they have plenty of reason from their standpoint to block unification unless, or until, they can be sure a united Germany is out of the Western alliance and either neutral or teamed up with them.

The Russians can afford to stall. Chancellor Adenauer is old and sick. He may have to disappear from the picture soon because of age or health or death. When he goes, it is not at all certain what course his successor will take.

The West Germans—through the urge for unification or division of feeling about continuing in the Western alliance—might be willing to make far greater concessions to the Russians than Adenauer's government seems willing to make.

Yet all this is only one of the complicated problems Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and France will either wrestle or waltz around with at Geneva.

Sideline Events At Geneva Viewed As Having Top Value

GENEVA (AP)—Things that happen on the sideline of the Big Four conference opening here today may have a more decisive effect on future East-West relations than the clash of issues and personalities within the conference itself.

President Eisenhower's illness is one of the events which throw a long shadow over this meeting. Despite his improvement, some diplomats think the uncertainty about his political future will make the Soviet government more cautious and suspicious in dealing with the United States than the Russians were at the summit conference in July.

From the West's point of view, Adenauer is perhaps the single most essential man in European politics today.

In another area, troubles in the Middle East—including Russia's bid for influence with the Arabs and the anti-French uprisings in North Africa—have upset prospects for world peace despite the friendlier East-West relations in Europe.

With Egypt arranging to get Communist arms from Czechoslovakia, the developing Arab-Israel arms race is a good bet to become a Geneva issue.

The North African crisis has sapped French strength from Europe and diverted attention from the East-West issue at an important moment. Now the French are faced with another diversion in the heart of Europe.

The 2-to-1 rejection by voters of the Saar Sunday of a French-German plan to "Europeanze" the rich valley has created a potentially grave threat to future harmony between Paris and the West German government at Bonn.

Basically, Western experts believe Russia wants to relax the West's political unity and military strength rather than to produce a permanent settlement now.

Particularly with respect to Germany, the Soviets may be playing for time. They may believe that West Germany's adherence to the North Atlantic Alliance and the new Western European Union is not unshakeable but rather depends on the strong leadership so long exerted by Adenauer.

Western officials, including believe Adenauer's policies have a sound basis of popular support in West Germany and will prevail after his retirement or death.

Yet what will happen in Germany when Adenauer passes from the scene is uncertain. A period of political conflict would seem to be inevitable.

New York Rules On Lay-Off Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits has ruled that a laid-off or jobless worker is qualified to receive unemployment insurance even though he receives company lay-off pay.

In holding that a worker receiving lay-off pay is just as unemployed as if he received no such pay, Javits made two stipulations.

He said, first, the Legislature should specify the jobless worker's status by amending the law.

Secondly, he expressed belief a federal ruling was needed to decide if the employer's payments to the jobless trust fund are subject to the state unemployment insurance tax.

Ohio Small Loan Companies Lauded

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state commerce director, W. Harper Annat, has praised operation of small loan companies in Ohio as establishing a "remarkable record" last year.

He spoke before 40th annual convention of the Ohio Consumer Loan Assn. and said:

"In looking over the 1954 report, I discovered that more than 359,000 loans in the total sum of $160,489,022 were made exclusively on the security of chattel mortgages on household goods. The repossession of household goods in these cases by court action or under contract right amounted to approximately 260 cases involving about $105,020. That is remarkable."

Navy's Free Ferry Comes Under Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—The Navy, in what it described as a move to win friends, supplied three destroyer escort training vessels to take 500 civilians to a West Point football game last Saturday.

But the trip also possibly lost some friends for the Navy.

While the vessels were tied up at West Point, a Hudson River excursion boat was unable to dock there as scheduled. The 900 excursionists booed the Navy crews.

Most of the guests traveling free aboard the Navy vessels were members of the Navy League and their families. The league consists of civilians, most of whom are former Navy officers.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—For about three weeks, beginning today, the Big Four foreign ministers will meet in Geneva, talk behind closed doors, issue some public statements perhaps, and probably agree on very little.

A great lack of accomplishment at Geneva should be no surprise.

A look at just one of the problems the ministers intend to discuss—unification of West and East Germany—is enough to show why Russia and the West, now separated by an absolute gulf on that subject, are likely to remain apart.

For years, by various devices which included propaganda, Russia fought the efforts of the United States to get West Germany rearmed and into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Russian tactics were rough and tough. Suddenly this year they switched to a soft line. The switch came only after West Germany was finally admitted to NATO. There were other reasons for the switch besides the German question.

But it seems obvious the Russians, having failed to keep West Germany out of NATO by bluster, could see that by a change in tactics they might still win their point, perhaps a double point:

They might, if they played it shrewdly enough not only get West Germany out of NATO but also even wreck NATO itself by softening up the other Western countries' fear of Russia. In this game the Russians have an ace in the hole.

The West Germans, and the East Germans who are under Communist control, want to be united. The Russians have put a price tag on unification: the Germans cannot be united so long as West Germany remains in NATO.

But the United States and the other Western allies want Germany united too. They have asked the Russians to let the East and West Germans unite by electing their own government in free elections.

All the reports from Europe indicate that if the elections were held now the East and West Germans would vote for a government like that of West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, who is a firm friend of the West.

The United States would hardly be urging the unification of Germany if it did not feel the results would be favorable to the West.

Since this is all obvious enough to the Russians, they have plenty of reason from their standpoint to block unification unless, or until, they can be sure a united Germany is out of the Western alliance and either neutral or teamed up with them.

The Russians can afford to stall. Chancellor Adenauer is old and sick. He may have to disappear from the picture soon because of age or health or death. When he goes, it is not at all certain what course his successor will take.

The West Germans—through the urge for unification or division of feeling about continuing in the Western alliance—might be willing to make far greater concessions to the Russians than Adenauer's government seems willing to make.

Yet all this is only one of the complicated problems Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and France will either wrestle or waltz around with at Geneva.

Sideline Events At Geneva Viewed As Having Top Value

GENEVA (AP)—Things that happen on the sideline of the Big Four conference opening here today may have a more decisive effect on future East-West relations than the clash of issues and personalities within the conference itself.

President Eisenhower's illness is one of the events which throw a long shadow over this meeting. Despite his improvement, some diplomats think the uncertainty about his political future will make the Soviet government more cautious and suspicious in dealing with the United States than the Russians were at the summit conference in July.

In another area, troubles in the Middle East—including Russia's bid for influence with the Arabs and the anti-French uprisings in North Africa—have upset prospects for world peace despite the friendlier East-West relations in Europe.

The North African crisis has sapped French strength from Europe and diverted attention from the East-West issue at an important moment. Now the French are faced with another diversion in the heart of Europe.

The 2-to-1 rejection by voters of the Saar Sunday of a French-German plan to "Europeanze" the rich valley has created a potentially grave threat to future harmony between Paris and the West German government at Bonn.

Basically, Western experts believe Russia wants to relax the West's political unity and military strength rather than to produce a permanent settlement now.

Particularly with respect to Germany, the Soviets may be playing for time. They may believe that West Germany's adherence to the North Atlantic Alliance and the new Western European Union is not unshakeable but rather depends on the strong leadership so long exerted by Adenauer.

Western officials, including believe Adenauer's policies have a sound basis of popular support in West Germany and will prevail after his retirement or death.

Yet what will happen in Germany when Adenauer passes from the scene is uncertain. A period of political conflict would seem to be inevitable.

New York Rules On Lay-Off Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits has ruled that a laid-off or jobless worker is qualified to receive unemployment insurance even though he receives company lay-off pay.

In holding that a worker receiving lay-off pay is just as unemployed as if he received no such pay, Javits made two stipulations.

He said, first, the Legislature should specify the jobless worker's status by amending the law.

Secondly, he expressed belief a federal ruling was needed to decide if the employer's payments to the jobless trust fund are subject to the state unemployment insurance tax.

Ohio Small Loan Companies Lauded

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state commerce director, W. Harper Annat, has praised operation of small loan companies in Ohio as establishing a "remarkable record" last year.

He spoke before 40th annual convention of the Ohio Consumer Loan Assn. and said:

"In looking over the 1954 report, I discovered that more than 359,000 loans in the total sum of $160,489,022 were made exclusively on the security of chattel mortgages on household goods. The repossession of household goods in these cases by court action or under contract right amounted to approximately 260 cases involving about $105,020. That is remarkable."

Navy's Free Ferry Comes Under Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—The Navy, in what it described as a move to win friends, supplied three destroyer escort training vessels to take 500 civilians to a West Point football game last Saturday.

But the trip also possibly lost some friends for the Navy.

While the vessels were tied up at West Point, a Hudson River excursion boat was unable to dock there as scheduled. The 900 excursionists booed the Navy crews.

Most of the guests traveling free aboard the Navy vessels were members of the Navy League and their families. The league consists of civilians, most of whom are former Navy officers.

Alliance's Water Shortage Problem Studied And Solved

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—This Stark County city is "beating the drums" for new industry, sending out the information that the community has a new, adequate and unpolluted water supply.

Industries which produce goods and provide employment exist only when there is an adequate, dependable water supply available, say civic leaders in their hunt for new plants.

Statisticians say:

It takes 65,000 gallons of water to make a ton of steel, 80,000 to make one kilowatt hour of electric power, 200,000 to make one ton of rayon and 320,000 to make one ton of aluminum.

Alliance's large industries, as an example, use 2½ million gallons daily, or nearly a billion gallons annually, to turn out such items as steel tubes, forgings, heavy machinery, cranes and steel ware.

Equally important is the health of a community which depends on a pure water supply. Without a continuing water flow, sewers would not function, streets could not be cleaned.

Families have been known to give up their homes and desert their properties at times in some areas because of failing wells and dried-up water courses.

"Alliance now has none of those water worries," says Donald D. Heffelfinger, superintendent - engineer of the city waterworks, and president of the Ohio section of the American Waterworks Assn.

Alliance this year is using more water than at any time in its 105-year history, and still is free of water headaches, thanks to a new million dollar reservoir that impounds a billion gallons of water.

In 1954 the city crossed its fingers, fearing a shortage, as it pumped 1,779 million gallons. This year the pumpage will go well beyond two billion and there's not a sign of a worry.

The reason: Alliance used to rely on the Mahoning River for its water supply. The Mahoning, besides being highly polluted, often would become just a trickle as the dry summer months wore on. Then it would be necessary to tap a reserve supply at nearby Westville Lake and to draw from three city wells. Both were considered inadequate in the face of ever increasing consumption and in event of a prolonged drought.

Alliance started looking for a new water sources as far back as 1911. It was not until 1942, however, that a small tributary, called Deer Creek, was chosen.

Work was not begun until August 1953, when a dam was constructed, flooding 303 acres of a 553-acre project site. The project was completed a year ago.

Alliance was given quality water. No longer was it necessary to use carbon to remove foreign tastes and odors. Lime, used for softening, was discontinued. The quantity of chlorine was cut in half.

The city is saving an estimated $10,000 a year on chemicals. Housewives are getting more suds for washing clothes and dishes, without using softner. That's a saving of thousands more dollars.

If it was not for the new reservoir, which still is more than half full, Alliance would have run out of water, Heffelfinger says in summing up the first year's operation.

Rural areas, too, are dependent on municipal water supplies. This summer small tank trucks hauled 1,200,000 gallons from the Alliance waterworks to farmers who were in need of water for livestock.

This shows cities often are called upon to help out neighboring farmers and small communities in time of drought, Heffelfinger said.

Alliance, with its new reservoir and its other supplies, now has enough water to meet the needs of the foreseeable future, Heffelfinger believes.

It unforseeable demands should arise, additional reservoirs could be constructed on Upper Deer Creek and on Lower Beech Creek, anothr tributary, to supplement the basic Deer Creek Reservoir, engineers say.

Some towns, badly in need of water today, have been told for 20 years about impending shortages. Alliance is an "example" of a city that has done something about its water supply before it was too late.

"Ten years is tomorrow" in water supply planning. A city can't wait until it is caught in a squeeze and expect to get water overnight, Heffelfinger says. He agrees with C. V. Youngquist, chief of the state's Division of Water, who recently was quoted in an Associated Press series as saying:

"Ohio isn't running out of water, but needs to learn how to make better use of the water it gets."

Army Life OK, But Not Captain

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) says a recent plea he received from a young Army man "was a new twist" for such cases.

"He said he liked everyone in his company," the senator said. "He liked Army life. Everything was wonderful except for one thing—his captain."

Did he want to be transferred? Not this one.

"The boy suggested that perhaps I could get the captain a new duty station," Hennings said.

6 Candidates Vie To Be OSU Queen

COLUMBUS (AP)—Four Franklin County girls and one each from Lima and Cleveland are competing to be crowned the Ohio State University homecoming queen.

The six were picked last night from a field of ten in a campus election. The queen's name won't be announced until a homecoming dance tomorrow night. Some 4,000 ballots were cast in the competition. Other finalists will serve as her court.

Candidates for queen are:

Ruth Ann Stanfield, Westerville; Mollie Warren, Judy Serafina and Judy Mazzoil, all of Columbus; Peg O'Connor, Lima; and Laurie Fant, Cleveland.

West Virginia Seeks Parley With Ohioans

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A state official here says the only way to draw up a new motor vehicle reciprocity pact between Ohio and West Virginia is for reciprocity boards of both states to meet "across the table."

After receiving Ohio's revised version of a proposed new pact, West Virginia Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joseph Condry commented:

"They make changes that complicate rather than clarify what ordinarily would be a simple document..."

Condry said negotiations "can't be done by mail."

Ohio cancelled reciprocity agreements with West Virginia and other states, saying the pacts had to be amended to exclude Ohio's axle-mile tax from the provisions.

The tax is a levy on trucks with more than two axles for use of Ohio highways. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled in June the tax could not be collected from Michigan truckers because it was covered by a 1937 reciprocity agreement.

Cancellation of the pacts was temporarily restrained until this Saturday by a Common Pleas Court in Columbus.

Without a pact between Ohio and West Virginia, said Condry, Ohio motorists traveling through West Virginia would be subject to that state's motor vehicle fees. This includes license plates and operators permits.

The same would hold true for West Virginians motoring through Ohio, he said.

The West Virginia version of a new pact, said Condry, would have Ohio truckers subject to West Virginia's gasoline importers tax. This is a levy on gasoline bought out side West Virginia but used in traveling that state's highways.

Ohio Tax Chieftain To Talk At Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's tax commissioner, Stanley J. Bowers, will give his views on school construction financing when a group of nationally-known tax experts meets Nov. 3, in Princeton, N. J.

He will talk on needs for and methods of construction financing at the annual Tax Institute, Inc., symposium attended by state tax directors and industry tax experts.

Orrville Dairyman Slated For Honors

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Farmers Club will honor at its annual banquet tomorrow an Orrville dairy farmer who last year shipped more than twice as much milk as the experts figured possible for a one-man dairy operation.

Wayne Hostetler shipped 428,000 pounds of milk from 38 Holstein and Guernsey cows and also produced all the feed for his herd.

OES Matron Named

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Ohio Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star has named Mrs. Marjorie F. Bean of Newcomerstown as Grand Worthy Matron.

Besides, Lehman knows that the professionals in his party want him to retire to make room for Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York who would like to have his late father's seat in the United States Senate.

Lehman will not quit even if he lives to be 120 years old and therefore the professionals regard him as an obstacle. It would make them happy if he were put into the Cabinet or sent out as an Ambassador, anything to remove him as a political bottleneck in New York State.

So politics is still exciting and the voter still develops passions, particularly over his heroes. Those of us who are not given to hero worship can refrain from voting or even registering in a year when there is no one to vote for. For instance, in my town the 1955 election is not worth bothering about, so I did not register.

If there were a system of permanent registration, it might have been attractive to go to the polls, if it did not rain that day. As to how to vote—who can say?

Ohio cancelled reciprocity agreements with West Virginia and other states, saying the pacts had to be amended to exclude Ohio's axle-mile tax from the provisions.

The tax is a levy on trucks with more than two axles for use of Ohio highways. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled in June the tax could not be collected from Michigan truckers because it was covered by a 1937 reciprocity agreement.

Cancellation of the pacts was temporarily restrained until this Saturday by a Common Pleas Court in Columbus.

Without a pact between Ohio and West Virginia, said Condry, Ohio motorists traveling through West Virginia would be subject to that state's motor vehicle fees. This includes license plates and operators permits.

The same would hold true for West Virginians motoring through Ohio, he said.

The West Virginia version of a new pact, said Condry, would have Ohio truckers subject to West Virginia's gasoline importers tax. This is a levy on gasoline bought out side West Virginia but used in traveling that state's highways.

Orrville Dairyman Slated For Honors

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Farmers Club will honor at its annual banquet tomorrow an Orrville dairy farmer who last year shipped more than twice as much milk as the experts figured possible for a one-man dairy operation.

Wayne Hostetler shipped 428,000 pounds of milk from 38 Holstein and Guernsey cows and also produced all the feed for his herd.

Besides, Lehman knows that the professionals in his party want him to retire to make room for Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York who would like to have his late father's seat in the United States Senate.

Lehman will not quit even if he lives to be 120 years old and therefore the professionals regard him as an obstacle. It would make them happy if he were put into the Cabinet or sent out as an Ambassador, anything to remove him as a political bottleneck in New York State.

So politics is still exciting and the voter still develops passions, particularly over his heroes. Those of us who are not given to hero worship can refrain from voting or even registering in a year when there is no one to vote for. For instance, in my town the 1955 election is not worth bothering about, so I did not register.

If there were a system of permanent registration, it might have been attractive to go to the polls, if it did not rain that day. As to how to vote—who can say?

Stockholders Getting Share Of New Boom

Bumper Corporation Crop Gives Yields Of Big Dividends

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The stockholder now is beginning to get his share of the bumper crop of corporate earnings. Many wage earners already have been cut in through increased pay scales. Later Uncle Sam will get more than half of the gross profits.

But at the moment the stockholders are in the cheering section.

In just three days, boards of directors of America's prospering corporations have declared 15 increases in dividends, 21 extra dividend payments as an early Christmas present, and 15 dividend payments in the form of additional stock distribution. At the same time regular dividend payment declarations poured in by the scores.

Many more such forms of year-end bounty are expected as directors meet between now and Christmas. Still other boosts in dividends may be made payable after new year's — under the expectation that individual income tax rates may be eased next year, and increased dividends will be even more welcome if subject to lower taxations.

Even if you're not among the lucky ones getting increased returns from investments, some of this extra money may brush off on you.

Merchants point out that stockholders — or at least their wives— often regard increased dividend payments as manna from heaven.

A one share man may merely go on a streak binge. But if the holdings are large enough the increased dividend checks may be translated into a fur coat or into upgrading the type of new car to be bought.

Add dividend payments to the fact that wage and salary totals continue to rise in the land, and the outlook for Christmas retail trade grows steadily brighter.

Companies increasing their dividend payments in the three days include: U. S. Steel, up 15 cents a share after a two-for-one stock split in June); Illinois Central, Carborundum, Imperial Oil, Hugeton Production, Humble Oil, Deere, G. D. Searle, S. S. White Dental, P. R. Mallory, American Steel Foundries, E. L. Bruce, G. C. Murphy, Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical, U. S. Loan Society.

The increases, small in terms of one share, will run into the millions when paid out on all the outstanding stock of these companies.

In the three days, corporations declaring extra cash disbursements include: Socony Mobil Oil, United Air Lines, Union Carbide, Wm. Wrigley Jr., S. D. Warren, Norfolk & Western Railway, Kansas City Southern, Great Lakes Dredging & Docks, Rolland Paper, Electric & Musical Industries, General Steel Castings, American Bakeries, Fuller Brush, Wytex Oil, J. R. Kearney, Neisner Bros., Canada Malt, Massachusetts Bonding, and three banks: Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank of Canada and Plantations Banks.

Some corporations have preferred to hand out stock dividends instead of cash. Standard Oil (Indiana) is passing out one share of Jersey Standard Oil for each 150 shares of Indiana. The Midwest company came by the Jersey stock early in the 1930s as part payment for some foreign properties it sold Jersey standard.

Others declaring stock dividends include: International Business Machine, Allied Chemical, National Gypsum, Warner-Lambert (which also raised the regular dividend), Glenn L. Martin, Bellanca Aircraft, First National Bank of Jersey City, Handy & Harman, Melville Shoe, National Container, Northwest Leather, Peerless Casualty, G. & W. H. Corson, and North American Cement.

Statuesque Greek Actress Making Dent In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— It's a long way from the strife of war-torn Athens to the glamor of Hollywood, but dark-eyed Irene Papas has made the trip.

Irene is MGM's latest candidate for stardom, and the first Greek girl within memory to make a dent in Hollywood. She is starring in her first film here, opposite James Cagney in "Tribute To a Bad Man."

What about this girl?

Well, she has dark brown hair long and wavy. She's a statuesque 5 feet 6, weighs 130 pounds with a tiny waist. The Greek way to pronounce her name is "Ireeny." But she says you can say it American-style if you'd rather. The Papas is pronounced "Papas."

She has smooth dark skin and classic features. The most remarkable feature about her are the eyes. They are black, deep and sad.

Although Katina Paxinou won an Oscar here, no Greek actress appears to have made a lasting impression on Hollywood. That seems odd, considering the viogr of the Greek theater.

Irene explained that the National Theater and dramatic school are supported by the government, which partially finances another training school. Standards are so high that actors have to possess licenses to act!

With rare exceptions, you can't act in Greece unless you have a high schol diploma and three years' training in dramatics. What an idea— licenses for actors! This could revolutionize Hollywood.

NEW YORK (AP)—Consumer durables saturation—three big words that mean: How many more autos, TV sets, kitchen and laundry appliances can and will the American people buy?

The stock of durable goods they now own is the largest in history At present they are spending 35 billion dollars a year for more.

Some economists fear that the saturation point may be near. They argue that most folk who need these things have them by now.

No such thing, say the economists at the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

"The American consumer, when his income rises, seems to possess an almost limitless capacity to use it," they point out in the bank's quarterly review of business. "And U. S. producers are equally resourceful in inventing new and improved appliances and other products to tempt him with."

Both the number of families already possessing these gadgets and the amount being spent a year for more is impressive.

About 70 per cent of all American families own an automobile, and 12 per cent of these own more than one. At the moment Americans are spending 16½ billion dollars a year in buying cars.

The housewife is the most conspicuous devotee of automation. The mechanization of the kitchen and laundry has placed electrical refrigerators and irons in 85 per cent of the homes, washing machines in 76 per cent and toasters in 68 per cent. More homes have television sets than central heating plants. There are more radios than private baths.

The housewife is now spending more than four billion dollars a year on kitchen and household appliances and two billion for furniture.

But the bank economists say this doesn't mean that the market note that in 1954 two thirds of all refrigerator sales were for replacement. And 83 per cent of new car buyers traded in an old car.

Economists at the First National City Bank of New York add to this replacement factor the estimate that there are around six million prewar cars on the roads—candidates for scrapping.

The Chase Manhattan men also point to new fields far from the saturation point: Clothes dryers and airconditioners are owned by only 4 per cent of our families, and dishwashers by 3 per cent.

And they expect new goods to be developed, citing as an example of what this could mean: While 70 per cent of American homes now have TV sets, 15 years ago none did.

Support for this optimistic view comes from the industries concerned.

The Vacuum Cleaner Manufacturers' Assn. notes today in Cleveland that factory sales of this product are breaking records this fall. In September sales ran 29 per cent higher than the year before, and for the first nine months of this year sales topped the like period of 1954 by 23 per cent.

The Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn.'s president, H. Leslie Hoffman, predicts that eight million TV sets will be turned out this year for a new record.

The U. S. Department of Commerce reports that of every dollar consumers spent in the first half of this year, they paid out six cents for furniture and household equipment.

TV Debate Booked On Idle Pay Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Cloud (R-Logan) will debate the merits of a proposed increase in unemployment compensation with a labor representative in a television (WLW-TV) program here next Sunday.

The Ohio Information Committee, opponent of the proposal which comes to a vote Nov. 8, said Cloud, Ohio House Speaker, will talk against the measure while John Rooney, assistant treasurer of the Ohio CIO Council, will speak in favor of it.

The committee also quoted former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert as saying he believes voters who study the issue closely will turn it down.

Ex-Cello-O Talks Slated In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Negotiations over local grievances at Ex-Cell-O Corp. plants in Fostoria and Lima, Ohio, Traverse City and Detroit, Mich., will be transferred to Detroit today in an effort to end a six-week companywide strike.

Ex-Cell--O management and the CIO United Auto Workers announced agreement on the plan yesterday. A union spokesman said he felt transferring local negotiations to a central point would speed a settlement.

About 5,000 Ex-Cell-O workers have been striking since Sept. 13. An agreement on general conditions, including wages, was reached 11 days ago, but the strike continued pending a settlement of local grievances.

Wright-Patterson Runway Job Set

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Air Force has announced plans to expand the 10,000-foot runway at Wright-Patterson AFB to 12,000 feet at a cost of $1,173,000.

Col. L. C. Howell, director of base installations, said, "this is just one more instance showing how rapidly the jet age is outgrowing present facilities."

Before World War II, the base runway was the longest in the world. It was built to handle the B-19, forerunner of today's big bombers.

Roger Tubby Due To Assist Adlai

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Roger Tubby presidential press secretary in the last few months of Harry Truman's administration, will assume a similar position with Adlai Stevenson next week. Tubby, 44, announced Wednesday night that he had quit as information chief of the New York State Commerce Department. Gov. Averell Harriman said, "I wish him well. I know that he will do a good job for Mr. Stevenson."

AP Guesspert Picks Navy To Defeat Irish

No Major Upsets Seen Coming This Weekend By Football Expert

By ARNOLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK (AP)—One can get plenty of headaches—also letters—picking Notre Dame to lose a football game but that is the choice this week. It is the Knute K. Rockne memorial game at South Bend and Notre Dame will pull all the psychological stops.

Should this forecast come true it will be because of George Welsh's pirate-bold antics as the Navy quarterback.

This blueplate special prediction is the highlight of the season's seventh week. Last week there were 37 correct selections among the 53 picks for a .699 average lowering the season's total to .734 on 199 correct choices and 72 incorrect ones.

Other selections this week:

Michigan over Iowa: If the trainers could meet at midfield and compare hospital lists, Iowa would be an easy victor.

Oklahoma over Kansas State: Bob Burris and Tommy McDonald gives the Sooners a rugged one-two punch.

Maryland over South Carolina: By three touchdowns, at least.

Michigan State over Wisconsin: Clarence Peaks rejoins the Spartans after a week's vacation.

UCLA over California: UCLA Coach Red Sanders says he has the two best college fullbacks of the season.

West Virginia over Marquette: Two good teams oppose one average eleven in this one.

Southern Caifornia over Minnesota: The Trojans will have to play rugged just to keep warm.

Georgia Tech over Duke: A pair of chagrined bowl candidates take it out on each other.

Miami over Pittsburgh: Pittsburgh learns all about Hurricanes in one wild afternoon.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

East: Lehigh over Temple, Penn State over Penn, Princeton over Brown, Rutgers over Delaware, Army over Colgate, Cornell over Columbia, Harvard over Bucknell, Richmond over Villanova, Yale over Dartmouth.

Midwest: Nebraska over Kansas, Ohio State over Northwestern, Oklahoma A&M over Tulsa, Cincinnati over Detroit, Colorado over Missouri, Iowa State over Drake, Houston over Wichita, Illinois over Purdue, Indiana over Ohio University, Boston College over Xavier.

South: Mississippi over Louisiana State, Tennessee over North Carolina, Mississippi State over North Texas State, Clemson over Wake Forest, North Carolina State over Furman, Georgia over Alabama, Kentucky over Rice, Vanderbilt over Virginia, Virginia Tech over George Washington, William & Mary over Virginia Military.

Far West: Colorado A&M over Montana, Denver over New Mexico, Oregon over Idaho, College of Pacific over Washington State, Stanford over San Jose, Utah State over Fresno, Washington over Oregon State, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Holman Collects KO Over Smith

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Holman, the strong but slow Chicago heavyweight, made Boardwalk Billy Smith's return to the ring wars a painful one last night. He flattened the New Jersey jailer with a right cross in the seventh round.

Smith was trying a comeback ten months after Paul Andrews belted him into temporary oblivion. For five rounds, he did all right, but the plodding Holman caught him in the sixth with a powerful left hook that laid him under the ropes for a count of nine. At 1:43 of the seventh, Holman pounded a right hook to the jaw that finished the fight.

Lew Hoad Wooed By Pro Backer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Lew Hoad, 20-year-old Australian tennis ace, was expected to give promoter Jack Kramer a definite yes or no today on whether he would accept an offer to turn professional.

Ten days ago Hoad said no to the American's proposition, believed to have been in the neighborhood of $50,000. But Kramer since has flown to Australia to make another effort to sign up the young Aussie for a worldwide tour.

Alan Hoad, Lew's father, revealed that his son signed an agreement with Kramer in the United States to turn pro if his parents approved.

Cleveland Browns Sign Pete Perini

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns have signed Pete Perini, fullback and linebacker who had been released by the Chicago Bears after playing there last season.

Perini, a former Ohio State player, will be used to replace Sam Palumbo, rookie from Notre Dame who goes on the injured reserve list because of a shoulder dislocation suffered in Sunday's game against Green Bay.

Akron Students Flunk Grid Test

Poor student attendance at recent home games caused the physical education instructor, Joe McMullen, to conduct the quiz.

Some of the questions were: What team did Akron play in its opening game? Who is the captain of the football team? Who is the quarterback? Who did Akron play in the homecoming game?

After getting very few correct answers, the instructor pointed out one student and asked, "Who is the head football coach?"

"I don't know."

The answer: McMullen.

A total of 633,484 fans turned out last season for Eastern League baseball games, an increase of 74,246 over 1954.

Big Names Absent In Senior Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Big names were conspicuously absent today as quarterfinal play began here in the fourth annual North and South Seniors Golf tourney.

The only titleholder to win his second round match yesterday was J. W. Roberts, Southern seniors champion from Columbus, Ohio, who downed Don Moore of Essex Falls, N. J., 3 and 2.

Medalist C. D. McAllister of Orlando, Fla., retired Air Force colonel, rallied to down T. M. Belshe of Washington, 3 and 2.

Lambeau To Lead All-Stars Again

CHICAGO (AP) — The winning coaching combination of 1955, headed by E. L. (Curly) Lambeau, again will direct the College All Stars in the 1956 mid-summer football classic.

Under Lambeau and his staff, the All Stars defeated the Cleveland Browns 30-27 last August in Soldier Field. It was the first time an all-pro coaching lineup guided the collegians.

Lambeau's assistants are Hunk Anderson, Steve Owen and Hampton Pool. Other helpers this year were Tony Canadeo, former Green Bay Packer star, and Charles Hafron of Notre Dame.

AP Guesspert Picks Navy To Defeat Irish

No Major Upsets Seen Coming This Weekend By Football Expert

By ARNOLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK (AP)—One can get plenty of headaches—also letters—picking Notre Dame to lose a football game but that is the choice this week. It is the Knute K. Rockne memorial game at South Bend and Notre Dame will pull all the psychological stops.

Should this forecast come true it will be because of George Welsh's pirate-bold antics as the Navy quarterback.

This blueplate special prediction is the highlight of the season's seventh week. Last week there were 37 correct selections among the 53 picks for a .699 average lowering the season's total to .734 on 199 correct choices and 72 incorrect ones.

Other selections this week:

Michigan over Iowa: If the trainers could meet at midfield and compare hospital lists, Iowa would be an easy victor.

Oklahoma over Kansas State: Bob Burris and Tommy McDonald gives the Sooners a rugged one-two punch.

Maryland over South Carolina: By three touchdowns, at least.

Michigan State over Wisconsin: Clarence Peaks rejoins the Spartans after a week's vacation.

UCLA over California: UCLA Coach Red Sanders says he has the two best college fullbacks of the season.

West Virginia over Marquette: Two good teams oppose one average eleven in this one.

Southern Caifornia over Minnesota: The Trojans will have to play rugged just to keep warm.

Georgia Tech over Duke: A pair of chagrined bowl candidates take it out on each other.

Miami over Pittsburgh: Pittsburgh learns all about Hurricanes in one wild afternoon.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

East: Lehigh over Temple, Penn State over Penn, Princeton over Brown, Rutgers over Delaware, Army over Colgate, Cornell over Columbia, Harvard over Bucknell, Richmond over Villanova, Yale over Dartmouth.

Midwest: Nebraska over Kansas, Ohio State over Northwestern, Oklahoma A&M over Tulsa, Cincinnati over Detroit, Colorado over Missouri, Iowa State over Drake, Houston over Wichita, Illinois over Purdue, Indiana over Ohio University, Boston College over Xavier.

South: Mississippi over Louisiana State, Tennessee over North Carolina, Mississippi State over North Texas State, Clemson over Wake Forest, North Carolina State over Furman, Georgia over Alabama, Kentucky over Rice, Vanderbilt over Virginia, Virginia Tech over George Washington, William & Mary over Virginia Military.

Far West: Colorado A&M over Montana, Denver over New Mexico, Oregon over Idaho, College of Pacific over Washington State, Stanford over San Jose, Utah State over Fresno, Washington over Oregon State, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Holman Collects KO Over Smith

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Holman, the strong but slow Chicago heavyweight, made Boardwalk Billy Smith's return to the ring wars a painful one last night. He flattened the New Jersey jailer with a right cross in the seventh round.

Smith was trying a comeback ten months after Paul Andrews belted him into temporary oblivion. For five rounds, he did all right, but the plodding Holman caught him in the sixth with a powerful left hook that laid him under the ropes for a count of nine. At 1:43 of the seventh, Holman pounded a right hook to the jaw that finished the fight.

Lew Hoad Wooed By Pro Backer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Lew Hoad, 20-year-old Australian tennis ace, was expected to give promoter Jack Kramer a definite yes or no today on whether he would accept an offer to turn professional.

Ten days ago Hoad said no to the American's proposition, believed to have been in the neighborhood of $50,000. But Kramer since has flown to Australia to make another effort to sign up the young Aussie for a worldwide tour.

Alan Hoad, Lew's father, revealed that his son signed an agreement with Kramer in the United States to turn pro if his parents approved.

Cleveland Browns Sign Pete Perini

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns have signed Pete Perini, fullback and linebacker who had been released by the Chicago Bears after playing there last season.

Perini, a former Ohio State player, will be used to replace Sam Palumbo, rookie from Notre Dame who goes on the injured reserve list because of a shoulder dislocation suffered in Sunday's game against Green Bay.

The Paul Fleming Residence

Inasmuch as the Fleming family is leaving the community and their residence on the Florence-Chapel Pike and the intersection of the Waterworks Rd. and the Goosepond Pike is for sale, they have slashed a tremendous amount off the price of this beautiful country home. If you have any knowledge of construction and residential value, you will have to admit that this new price is far below anything else in the country by comparsion.

For fast action they are willing to sacrifice this home. The buyer will gain, the Flemings will lose. Don't waste time if you want a bargain. Thousands of dollars off original price.

The Paul Fleming Residence

Inasmuch as the Fleming family is leaving the community and their residence on the Florence-Chapel Pike and the intersection of the Waterworks Rd. and the Goosepond Pike is for sale, they have slashed a tremendous amount off the price of this beautiful country home. If you have any knowledge of construction and residential value, you will have to admit that this new price is far below anything else in the country by comparsion.

For fast action they are willing to sacrifice this home. The buyer will gain, the Flemings will lose. Don't waste time if you want a bargain. Thousands of dollars off original price.

Battle Of Fullbacks Looms For Friday

CHS's Phifer, Greenfield's Knowles Of Big Help To Teams This Year

Friday night's homecoming game, when Circleville plays host to Greenfield McClain, may well turn into a battle of fullbacks.

The visitors boast of Jim Knowles while CHS can point to George Phifer. Both of these boys were tied last year in being selected to the all SCOL team.

Both seniors have been going great this season and have played important parts in contributing to their teams' success. The outcome of Friday night's encounter may well decide which boy gets the nod this year on the all league eleven.

The game will probably be the best of the season, according to CHS coach Steve Brudzinski. He said that both teams will be "up" for this contest and both are powerful.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE appears in pretty good shape and spirits, according to scrimmage observations. CHS is adding a couple of new "wrinkles" to its offense and defense but Brudzinski noted that the success of these inovations depends on excellent timing.

Joe Hill, starting right halfback, appears to be the only "casualty". He suffered a slight sprain of his foot in practice earlier this week. Although Hill has a very slight simp, Brudzinski said he expects him to "OK" for the game.

The S. Court St. lads want this game badly. They well remember the drubbing they took from Greenfield last year—35 to 7. It was a humiliating defeat.

CHS also needs the game to stay in contention for SCOL honors. Washington C. H. has a 3-0 record in league play as compared with 2-0 for CHS. (WCH was handed one victory by forfeit—although Greenfield beat them 20 to 0, McClain was charged with using an ineligible player and had to relinquish the win along with two other victories.)

Any hope Circleville has of going through a successful season also rests on the Friday night game. Brudzinski said Wednesday that he believes CHS will have to play its best game yet if they want to win.

* * *

ALTHOUGH Greenfield has an official 2-4 record, it has only actually lost one game—that was a 12-0 decision to Jackson in its opener back in September against a team now ranked No. 9 in the state. Since then they have won five straight but had to give up three of their wins as explained above.

Greenfield has been able to average approximately 20 points a game as compared with 25 for Circleville. On defense, McClain has held opponents to an average of 11½ points per contest; CHS has given up approximately 10.

For the spectator quarterback CHS and Greenfield have played two similar opponents. Greenfield beat Wilmington 27 to 18, while CHS barely squeezed past the Hurricanes 14 to 6. McClain barely edged out St. Charles 20 to 19; Circleville overpowered the Saints 33 to 20 to break a five-year jinx.

Speaking of the St. Charles game, many observers called that the best game seen here this year. Coach Brudzinski said that Friday night's game should even be better than that.

"Our boys really want this game," Brudzinski commented. "But they know they are going to have to fight hard if they want to win. Greenfield is a tough opponent and we're going to have to go all out if we expect to end up on top.

* * *

"A LOT OF things are at stake in this game and the boys know it. When Friday night comes, I think the boys will be ready to go out and play hard."

Californian Leads Touchdown Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Southern California's Jon Arnett gained 116 yards by running against California last Saturday. The 16 were the ones that counted.

That's how far Arnett had to travel for the three touchdowns that put him ahead of Texas Christian's Jim Swink in their private duel for the major college football scoring lead. Two of Arnett's scores came from six yards out, the other from 4.

The latest NCAA Service Bureau statistics record 11 touchdowns and 10 extra points for a 76-point total for Arnett with Swink a point behind on 12 touchdowns and three conversions.

Battle Of Fullbacks Looms For Friday

CHS's Phifer, Greenfield's Knowles Of Big Help To Teams This Year

Friday night's homecoming game, when Circleville plays host to Greenfield McClain, may well turn into a battle of fullbacks.

The visitors boast of Jim Knowles while CHS can point to George Phifer. Both of these boys were tied last year in being selected to the all SCOL team.

Both seniors have been going great this season and have played important parts in contributing to their teams' success. The outcome of Friday night's encounter may well decide which boy gets the nod this year on the all league eleven.

The game will probably be the best of the season, according to CHS coach Steve Brudzinski. He said that both teams will be "up" for this contest and both are powerful.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE appears in pretty good shape and spirits, according to scrimmage observations. CHS is adding a couple of new "wrinkles" to its offense and defense but Brudzinski noted that the success of these inovations depends on excellent timing.

Joe Hill, starting right halfback, appears to be the only "casualty". He suffered a slight sprain of his foot in practice earlier this week. Although Hill has a very slight simp, Brudzinski said he expects him to "OK" for the game.

The S. Court St. lads want this game badly. They well remember the drubbing they took from Greenfield last year—35 to 7. It was a humiliating defeat.

CHS also needs the game to stay in contention for SCOL honors. Washington C. H. has a 3-0 record in league play as compared with 2-0 for CHS. (WCH was handed one victory by forfeit—although Greenfield beat them 20 to 0, McClain was charged with using an ineligible player and had to relinquish the win along with two other victories.)

Any hope Circleville has of going through a successful season also rests on the Friday night game. Brudzinski said Wednesday that he believes CHS will have to play its best game yet if they want to win.

* * *

ALTHOUGH Greenfield has an official 2-4 record, it has only actually lost one game—that was a 12-0 decision to Jackson in its opener back in September against a team now ranked No. 9 in the state. Since then they have won five straight but had to give up three of their wins as explained above.

Greenfield has been able to average approximately 20 points a game as compared with 25 for Circleville. On defense, McClain has held opponents to an average of 11½ points per contest; CHS has given up approximately 10.

For the spectator quarterback CHS and Greenfield have played two similar opponents. Greenfield beat Wilmington 27 to 18, while CHS barely squeezed past the Hurricanes 14 to 6. McClain barely edged out St. Charles 20 to 19; Circleville overpowered the Saints 33 to 20 to break a five-year jinx.

Speaking of the St. Charles game, many observers called that the best game seen here this year. Coach Brudzinski said that Friday night's game should even be better than that.

"Our boys really want this game," Brudzinski commented. "But they know they are going to have to fight hard if they want to win. Greenfield is a tough opponent and we're going to have to go all out if we expect to end up on top.

* * *

"A LOT OF things are at stake in this game and the boys know it. When Friday night comes, I think the boys will be ready to go out and play hard."

Californian Leads Touchdown Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Southern California's Jon Arnett gained 116 yards by running against California last Saturday. The 16 were the ones that counted.

That's how far Arnett had to travel for the three touchdowns that put him ahead of Texas Christian's Jim Swink in their private duel for the major college football scoring lead. Two of Arnett's scores came from six yards out, the other from 4.

The latest NCAA Service Bureau statistics record 11 touchdowns and 10 extra points for a 76-point total for Arnett with Swink a point behind on 12 touchdowns and three conversions.

You Weary? State Offers Chance To 'Get Away From It All'

Hocking Hills Tracts Listed For Leasing

Area Part Of Land Granted To Ohio Long Ago By U. S.

Have you ever dreamed of a cabin out in the wilds where you could get away from the hustle and bustle and tensions of work-a-day life?

State Auditor James A. Rhodes believes he has the answer to such dreams in seven tracts of state-owned land in the Hocking county hills that are available for lease three to 20 years.

These tracts are part of the remaining 8,000 acres of land that were granted by Congress to Ohio more than 150 years ago for the benefit of schools. Money received from the leases will go to the schools in the townships in which these seven tracts are located.

Three of the tracts are approximately 40 acres and four, approximately 80 acres.

THEY ARE located about 60 miles from Logan, and less than 10 miles from Lake Hope.

The land is hilly wilderness, with trees in abundance. The state reserves the mineral rights in leasing its school lands. Also the timber, unless it is used to build a cabin, fences, or other improvements on the land.

The minimum bid that Rhodes may accept for leasing such land is $20 a year for the small tracts and $42 a year for the large tracts.

Anyone interested may obtain information about these tracts by writing or phoning Rhodes' office in the statehouse.

As state auditor he is supervisor of school and ministerial lands. He is responsible for the management of such lands and the distribution of the funds derived from them.

For motorists who want a look at the locality, here are the directions:

Take Route 33 to Logan. Just beyond Logan, turn right off Route 33 on State Route 328 to Union Furnace. Go one-half mile south of Union Furnace and turn left, or east. Continue east for one mile to where the road swings south, and that is the northwest corner of Tract No. 1. At the end of two miles, you will have traveled through four of the tracts.

Cincy Voters Asked To OK $9 Million In Bond Issues

CINCINNATI (AP)—The whirl of airplanes and the click of voting machine levers are making the most noise in the 1955 Cincinnati election campaign.

Voters in Ohio's second largest city and county are asked to approve six million dollars in bonds for an airport and three million dollars for voting machines.

Passengers on commercial airlines presently use the Greater Cincinnati Airport across the Ohio River in Boone County, Ky.

Proponents of the Cincinnati-Hamilton County Airport claim (1) the Kentucky airport is reaching its saturation point in traffic, (2) it is too far from Cincinnati and (3) a "home" airport would add to the city's prestige and industrial growth.

Opponents of the new airport contend (1) the present facilities are adequate now and for the foreseeable future, (2) the proposed site is too close to schools, homes and churches, and (3) the new airport would be antiquated before it was built because of the expanded use of jet planes in commercial aviation.

Community leaders, who usually stress the economic integration of northern Kentucky and Cincinnati, are using the issue of the "foreignness" of the airport to drum up votes.

Charles Sawyer, former U.S. Secreary of Commerce and vice chairman of the Citizens United for Continuing Progress, said the new airport would aid the "growing industrial and population area in the Upper Miami Valley." He added that residents of Middletown and Hamilton would find the airport a "great convenience."

Voting machines share the noisy campaign spotlight.

Republicans started clamoring for the machines after vote frauds in last November's election. The vote recount which uncovered the frauds helped the Democrats and the Charter Party but many Democratic and Charter leaders oppose the bond issue. Charter is a coalition of regular Democrats and liberal Republicans in city elections.

The Democrats and Charterites say it would not eliminate mistakes—honest and otherwise — in transering tabulations, source of much of last year's election trouble. And they say business machine concerns are on the threshhold of new voting machine innovations which would make present machines almost obsolete.

The airport and voting machine bond issues need the approval of 55 per cent of the voters in the Nov. 8 election.

Ohio Kefauver Club Officials Selected

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — Mrs. Mary E. McGowan, a Democratic national committee woman from Akron, has been named secretary of the Ohio Kefauver Club. Named treasurer was Carl L. Stacey, chairman of the Columbiana County election board.

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana Village, who heads the pro-Kefauver workers, announced the appointment recently.

He said the Tennessee Democratic senator's name will be entered in the Ohio presidential preference primaries next May.

Man Ordered Stop Snapping Fingers

CHICAGO (AP) — There'll be no more snapping of fingers beneath his wife's nose for 87-year-old Joseph Fitzpatrick.

A Circuit Court judge enjoined Fitzpatrick, a city sewer employe, from engaging in the sideplay. His wife, Eleanor, 42, said it "torments" her.

The snapping of fingers brought Mrs. Fitzpatrick to "the verge of a nervous breakdown," her attorney told the court. It happened every night, he added.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick has a divorce suit pending charging cruelty even though they continue to live in the same house.

Pedestrian Loses In Damage Claim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —A bread truck driver won $8,634 damages in a traffic accident case Wednesday—from a pedestrian. Charles B. Maynard, 29, had charged Mrs. Katherine W. Nitzken moved around a bus toward the path of his truck. He said he swerved to avoid striking her and crashed into a utility pole suffering head and arm injuries.

Very Young Thug Threatens Cashier

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—The gal in the ticket cage at the Rialto Theater called the cops. She said a young ruffian had threatened her with a knife and called her names when she wouldn't give him free admission. Patrolman Arlie Robinson said the six-year-old offender would be turned over to Juvenile authorities.

Have you ever dreamed of a cabin out in the wilds where you could get away from the hustle and bustle and tensions of work-a-day life?

State Auditor James A. Rhodes believes he has the answer to such dreams in seven tracts of state-owned land in the Hocking county hills that are available for lease three to 20 years.

These tracts are part of the remaining 8,000 acres of land that were granted by Congress to Ohio more than 150 years ago for the benefit of schools. Money received from the leases will go to the schools in the townships in which these seven tracts are located.

Three of the tracts are approximately 40 acres and four, approximately 80 acres.

THEY ARE located about 60 miles from Logan, and less than 10 miles from Lake Hope.

The land is hilly wilderness, with trees in abundance. The state reserves the mineral rights in leasing its school lands. Also the timber, unless it is used to build a cabin, fences, or other improvements on the land.

The minimum bid that Rhodes may accept for leasing such land is $20 a year for the small tracts and $42 a year for the large tracts.

Anyone interested may obtain information about these tracts by writing or phoning Rhodes' office in the statehouse.

As state auditor he is supervisor of school and ministerial lands. He is responsible for the management of such lands and the distribution of the funds derived from them.

For motorists who want a look at the locality, here are the directions:

Take Route 33 to Logan. Just beyond Logan, turn right off Route 33 on State Route 328 to Union Furnace. Go one-half mile south of Union Furnace and turn left, or east. Continue east for one mile to where the road swings south, and that is the northwest corner of Tract No. 1. At the end of two miles, you will have traveled through four of the tracts.

Cincy Voters Asked To OK $9 Million In Bond Issues

CINCINNATI (AP)—The whirl of airplanes and the click of voting machine levers are making the most noise in the 1955 Cincinnati election campaign.

Voters in Ohio's second largest city and county are asked to approve six million dollars in bonds for an airport and three million dollars for voting machines.

Passengers on commercial airlines presently use the Greater Cincinnati Airport across the Ohio River in Boone County, Ky.

Proponents of the Cincinnati-Hamilton County Airport claim (1) the Kentucky airport is reaching its saturation point in traffic, (2) it is too far from Cincinnati and (3) a "home" airport would add to the city's prestige and industrial growth.

Opponents of the new airport contend (1) the present facilities are adequate now and for the foreseeable future, (2) the proposed site is too close to schools, homes and churches, and (3) the new airport would be antiquated before it was built because of the expanded use of jet planes in commercial aviation.

Community leaders, who usually stress the economic integration of northern Kentucky and Cincinnati, are using the issue of the "foreignness" of the airport to drum up votes.

Charles Sawyer, former U.S. Secreary of Commerce and vice chairman of the Citizens United for Continuing Progress, said the new airport would aid the "growing industrial and population area in the Upper Miami Valley." He added that residents of Middletown and Hamilton would find the airport a "great convenience."

Voting machines share the noisy campaign spotlight.

Republicans started clamoring for the machines after vote frauds in last November's election. The vote recount which uncovered the frauds helped the Democrats and the Charter Party but many Democratic and Charter leaders oppose the bond issue. Charter is a coalition of regular Democrats and liberal Republicans in city elections.

The Democrats and Charterites say it would not eliminate mistakes—honest and otherwise — in transering tabulations, source of much of last year's election trouble. And they say business machine concerns are on the threshhold of new voting machine innovations which would make present machines almost obsolete.

The airport and voting machine bond issues need the approval of 55 per cent of the voters in the Nov. 8 election.

Ohio Kefauver Club Officials Selected

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — Mrs. Mary E. McGowan, a Democratic national committee woman from Akron, has been named secretary of the Ohio Kefauver Club. Named treasurer was Carl L. Stacey, chairman of the Columbiana County election board.

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana Village, who heads the pro-Kefauver workers, announced the appointment recently.

He said the Tennessee Democratic senator's name will be entered in the Ohio presidential preference primaries next May.

Man Ordered Stop Snapping Fingers

CHICAGO (AP) — There'll be no more snapping of fingers beneath his wife's nose for 37-year-old Joseph Fitzpatrick.

A Circuit Court judge enjoined Fitzpatrick, a city sewer employe, from engaging in the sideplay. His wife, Eleanor, 42, said it "torments" her.

The snapping of fingers brought Mrs. Fitzpatrick to "the verge of a nervous breakdown," her attorney told the court. It happened every night, he added.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick has a divorce suit pending charging cruelty even though they continue to live in the same house.

Pedestrian Loses In Damage Claim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —A bread truck driver won $8,634 damages in a traffic accident case Wednesday—from a pedestrian. Charles B. Maynard, 29, had charged Mrs. Katherine W. Nitzken moved around a bus toward the path of his truck. He said he swerved to avoid striking her and crashed into a utility pole suffering head and arm injuries.

Very Young Thug Threatens Cashier

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—The gal in the ticket cage at the Rialto Theater called the cops. She said a young ruffian had threatened her with a knife and called her names when she wouldn't give him free admission. Patrolman Arlie Robinson said the six-year-old offender would be turned over to Juvenile authorities.
